Johnson, Top Aides Push for Support In Viet Nam Policy

260 Arrested in Demonstrations Over Issue of U. S. Involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and his top aides are bearing down hard in briefings, public statements and interviews on their view that the bulk of Congress and the nation back U.S. policies in the Viet Nam war.

Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara all spoke out along this line Monday. The day in Washington was also marked by the arrest of 260 persons in noisy demonstrations and counterdemonstrations swirling around the issue of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Meets Press
Johnson unexpectedly met with the White House press between two extensive briefing sessions, each for half the Senate. He said to the newsmen, referring to what he called would-be hopeful enemies, "I don't want any of them to say, because somebody makes a speech that questions this or that there is any substantial division in our country. And, in my judgment, there is no substantial division in the Congress."

He added: "We're there to stay. We're going to do what we need to do to resist aggression. When aggression ceases, resistance ceases."

Must Debate
Ruk, interviewed along with McNamara on a CBS television program Monday night, remarked that "it is quite true that Hanoi lives on expressions of dissent or disagreement here within our own society."

He said it is right in this country to debate great issues vigorously but "I think the repeated demonstration of unity in this country is very important in persuading Hanoi that they can't win."

He said: "The one thing we must not do with this $7 billion is nothing at all," he said. "If we don't spend it or give it back to our citizens in tax cuts, it will act as a fiscal drag on our economy."

Malaysia, Singapore Seem Ready To Solve Their Major Disputes

Differences Hinge on Commerce With Indonesia, Possible Aggression by It

BY TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia and Singapore appeared ready today to work in harmony if they can reconcile Singapore's desire for trade with Indonesia and Malaysia's fears of Indonesian aggression.

Statements issued by leaders of the two governments following Singapore's sudden withdrawal from the federation stressed coexistence and cooperation.

"We now separate on terms of friendship," said Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman. He underscored points in the separation agreement calling for joint action in economic and defense matters.

Working Relations

53 Die in Fire, Explosion at Titan Missile Launching Site

Government Casualties 'Moderate'

Vietnamese Force Kills 219 Guerrillas in Duc Co Battle

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A large government force attempting to relieve the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co has killed 219 Viet Cong in a "battle of sizable proportions" that is continuing, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Government casualties — including American dead and wounded — are "moderate," the spokesman said, but added, "I describe them as moderate only because of the large number of troops involved."

A U.S. Air Force F100 was shot down Monday near Duc Co. The pilot parachuted into territory held by the Viet Cong and efforts by planes and helicopters to rescue him were unavailing.

F100 Lost

Another plane, a U.S. Air Force F105, was lost today in the continuing air strikes over North Viet Nam, but the pilot was recovered, the spokesman said. He reported the Thunderchief was shot from a seven-plane formation that knocked out one span of the Vin Tuy bridge, 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The Duc Co battle seemed to be shaping up as the most sizable engagement since American and Vietnamese forces beat back an attempt by a reinforced Viet Cong regiment in early June to drive from the hills to the South China Sea in the area of Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said the Viet Cong casualties had been confirmed by body count.

Viet Cong Weapons

He reported two government tanks had been knocked out but said the government force had captured 74 Viet Cong weapons. The government force was battling its way westward along Route 19, the east-west highway through the central highlands, in an attempt to reach the camp five miles from the Cambodian border.

Its garrison, now numbering 12 U.S. advisers and about 150 South Vietnamese and mountain tribesmen, has been under siege for 67 days. The Communists attack the camp nightly with mortars and small arms.

Since early Monday, Viet Cong forces have been hitting the relief force systematically as it tried to cover the 30 miles between Pleiku, capital of the 2nd corps area, and Duc Co.

Account of Action

The government force was reported fighting about seven miles east of Duc Co. The U.S. spokesman gave this account of the action:

Viet Cong snipers opened up on the large road force early Monday. By afternoon the lead elements were heavily engaged. Just before dusk the Viet Cong hit another part of the column. A force estimated at about 150 guerrillas directed heavy fire from mortars and recoilless rifles at the trucks, tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Two tanks were knocked out and one armored personnel carrier was destroyed along with a truck and a 105mm howitzer.

Late Monday afternoon a U.S. forward air controller reported

he had spotted a Viet Cong battalion. The Air Force flew 50 sorties in the area and kept up air strikes today. But sniper fire continued against the column. Efforts were being made to move out the dead and wounded.

Pilot Drowned

The spokesman said rescue parties have been unable to find a U.S. Air Force pilot who parachuted from his F100 Super Sabre after it was hit by ground fire Monday night about six miles east of Duc Co. Rescuers found his parachute but intense enemy fire prevented further search. The aircraft had been supporting the government effort to break the siege.

A mile south of the Da Nang Air Base, Viet Cong mortar crews moved into a village part-

By ED SHEARER

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan 2 missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible this is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, Air Force public information officer at the site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workmen in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire Monday was uncertain.

Two workmen scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

The Air Force said all the victims apparently asphyxiated when the blast and fire sealed off their means of escape and filled the complex with smoke.

The Air Force originally said it believed the explosion and fire trapped 48 men in the silo. Later, another Air Force spokesman said the figure should be less definite — "about 50."

Rescue teams wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, and using special gear to breathe in the smoke-clogged silo, worked

Carpenter to Return to Missile Silo

MORRISTON, Ark. (AP) — A civilian carpenter who barely missed being caught in the Titan 2 missile site fire at Searcy, Ark., Monday headed back to work today — back to another missile complex.

"I'll be going down in one," said H. M. Bearden as he prepared to make his daily 68-mile drive from home to Searcy.

Bearden, a carpentry foreman, was starting down on a freight elevator to work on a scaffolding for electricians in the underground silo.

He and the elevator operator had gone down about 12 feet.

"First, I heard the warning over the loudspeaker," Bearden said. "They said the indicator reported a fire in the third level. Then smoke poured out all over everywhere. It came up all of a sudden."

"The first thing I thought was, 'We've got to get out of here fast.' And we did."

"We know how dangerous it is," Bearden, 53, father of five married children, called his wife to tell her he was safe, then spent most of the night at the missile site while Air Force crews brought out the bodies.

"What does my wife think about my going back? We haven't talked about it," Bearden said. "And what do I think about it? I haven't had time to think about it."

"But I'll be going down in one today."

Cuban Seaman Admits He Went On Murder Rampage Aboard Ship

By DOUG BAILEY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban seaman picked off a skiff in the Gulf Stream admitted today that he went on a murder rampage on the banana boat Seven Seas, a Coast Guard spokesman said today.

"As I understand it, he admitted doing them all except the cook," Cmdr. W. C. Wahl of the Key West Coast Guard base told the Associated Press.

"The last thing he said was that he sent the cook, Gerald Davidson down to the engine room for something. We don't know where the cook is."

Wahl said Ramirez told interrogators that he left the Seven Seas alone in the skiff.

14 Foot Skiff

Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel which located the 14-foot skiff in the Gulf Stream 60 miles south of Miami.

Senate Unit OKs Fortas, Marshall Appointments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved today President Johnson's nominations of Abe Fortas to be a Supreme Court justice and Thurgood Marshall to be solicitor general.

The committee also recommended Senate confirmation of Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., to be a U.S. District Court judge in Arkansas.

Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., both of whom left the closed committee meeting early, said Fortas was approved without any dissenting votes.

They told newsmen, however, that some votes were cast against approval of Marshall's nomination to succeed former Harvard Law School Prof. Archibald Cox as solicitor general.

Yanks Fire Warning Shots at Vietnamese Crowd, Wounding 3

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army guards fired warning shots into the ground to halt about 150 Vietnamese civilians advancing on a garbage detail Monday near Qui Nhon and a man and two boys were wounded by ricocheting bullets.

A U.S. spokesman, in announcing the incident today, said he did not know why the crowd was advancing.

A desire of some Vietnamese to cull American garbage even before dumping led to a couple of earlier clashes at Da Nang, north of Qui Nhon.

He was transferred to a Coast Guard patrol boat which took him to Miami Beach, then was hustled away by U.S. Immigration Service agents.

A tight lid of secrecy was clamped here on the interrogation of Ramirez.

Another Coast Guard spokesman said Ramirez told the investigators that he shot and killed five of the crewmen aboard the 166-foot vessel, then fled the death ship when her engines went dead as she churned toward his Cuban homeland.

Known Survivors

The only known survivors of the murder spree was Elvin Burywise, 17, who hid in terror for 18 hours in a dark, smelly chain locker so small he could not stand erect.

"There is no word on the motive for the killings, Wahl said. When silence fell over the ship after the bursts of gunfire, Burywise said, he could tell from his place of refuge that her course was changed southward toward Cuba, but the fuel in her main tanks apparently ran out two hours later.

The Coast Guard speculated that whoever was operating the ship did not know how to switch to auxiliary tanks.

When the Seven Seas was towed into Key West, Fla., Monday by a Coast Guard cutter, the bodies of three crewmen were found, one on deck and two in their blood-stained bunks below.

Dead Not Identified

The Coast Guard refused to identify the dead, but Mrs. Raul Garcia, wife of the ship's owner, said they were Aldrich Hinds, the first mate; chief engineer Jose Abad; and Antonio Forner, a seaman.

Burywise said he also saw Capt. Rogelio Diaz lying dead in a pool of blood on the bridge, but the Coast Guard said a trail of blood leading to the port rail indicated that Diaz was thrown overboard.

The other crew member besides the missing cook, was Franco Salomon, the second engineer.

Big Question

What happened to the cook, the Coast Guard's spokesman said, "is the big question."

Burywise, who emerged from his hiding place when the vessel was boarded by a Coast Guard party Sunday, said he

Aid People

"But completely consistent with that policy would be the establishment now of an American committee to aid the people of North Viet Nam," said the former vice president, a Republican.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, under whom Nixon served for eight years, was to introduce Nixon.

It was here three years ago that Hoover gave his last major address, in which he called for a "council of free nations" to act when the United Nations "fails to act or is prevented from taking action" to preserve world peace.

Nixon said his proposal should not be a government-to-government program, "which would simply strengthen the domination of the Communist government of North Viet Nam over the people of that unhappy country."

"The American people throughout contributions to such a committee would send to the people of North Viet Nam food, medicine, clothing and other materials which would help them recover from the devastating destruction of war," Nixon said.

Nixon Urges Hike In Viet Nam Attacks

Asks Food, Medicine Gifts for North Vietnamese After War Ends

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said today the United States must step up attacks on North Viet Nam. He suggested Americans start contributing food, medicine and clothing to help the North Vietnamese people recover "when peace finally comes."

"We must continue to step up our air and sea attacks on North Viet Nam until the Communist leaders stop their aggression against South Viet Nam," Nixon said in a speech prepared for a program marking the 91st birthday anniversary of the late President Herbert Hoover.

Nixon said such a program would be "in the great humanitarian tradition of Herbert Hoover." He noted that Hoover insisted that American aid to Russians after World War I be administered by the American Relief Administration which Hoover headed.

saw Ramirez shoot the first mate to death in his bunk.

Roberto Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel then transferred to a Coast Guard patrol boat which brought him to Miami Beach. He was taken to a U.S. Immigration Service office.

The only one of the original eight crewmen still alive on the 166-foot vessel Seven Seas when it was boarded by a Coast Guard party Sunday, 17-year-old Elvin Burywise, said he saw Ramirez shoot the first mate to death in his bunk.

Burywise said he also saw the body of Capt. Rogelio Diaz lying in a pool of blood. Bodies of three crewmen were on the vessel when it was towed into Key West and a trail of blood leading to the port rail indicated that Diaz had been thrown overboard.

Two Missing

Two men still are missing. Burywise, who cowered in a chain locker while the violence raged, said the vessel changed course toward Cuba after the shootings and sailed in that direction for two hours before the engines went dead. Ramirez was a Cuban refugee who often talked longingly of his wife and three daughters still on the Communist island.

A Coast Guard spokesman speculated that whoever was sailing the Seven Seas southward did not know how to switch to auxiliary fuel tanks.

"I'm lucky to be alive," said Burywise, a short, slight Honduran who spent 18 hours in the chain locker.

Search Craft

A team of federal agents and Coast Guard officials searched the weatherbeaten freighter for a clue as to whether the killings were the act of a crewman gone berserk or a plot to seize command and sail to Cuba.

The Seven Seas had left Miami and was en route to a Tampa dry dock but suddenly changed course for Cuba, Burywise said.

He said there had been no hint of mutiny — no argument, no drinking, no complaints about the captain.

He said he had never even seen the death weapon — believed to be a 38-caliber revolver — until he was leaving the bunkroom about 10:15 p.m. Saturday to go on deck because it was too hot to sleep.

ly burned by U.S. Marines last week and rained about 20 mortar rounds on Marine tank positions late Monday, killing one American and wounding four.

The Communist guerrillas apparently escaped unscathed after lobbing the 60mm shells into the American position. No tanks were reported damaged. "I'm real proud of my men, who reacted quickly during the barrage," said the battalion commander, Lt. Col. S. R. Jones Jr. of Amory, Miss. "The men here are all cooks, bakers, maintenance men, clerks and what have you. They work all day and night digging trenches as well as taking care of the tanks."

After the barrage, the Marines came under sniper fire and returned the fire.

The mortar attack came from Cam Ne village, where about 50 villagers staged a protest Monday against the burning of more than 50 homes by Marines after the Leathernecks had received sniper fire from the village.

tive to racial strife and rejected his plea for a looser federation.

Government leaders of the Borneo states of Sarawak and Sabah, the two remaining partners of Malaya in the federation, said there was no basis to reports that they would also pull out. However, opposition political parties in Sarawak called for a plebiscite to determine if the people want to remain in the federation.

Indonesians already were claiming a victory over the federation.

Conditions Set

In Jakarta, First Deputy Premier Subandrio said Indonesia will recognize Singapore if it "proclaims itself an independent state." He indicated that recognition might be withheld if Britain is permitted to retain its air and naval bases in Singapore.

The joint separation agreement calls for Singapore to respect the status of the British bases and permit their continued use for defense purposes. Lee said he would abide by this.

Britain has about 50,000 troops stationed in Malaysia to fight off Indonesia's military campaign.

Informed sources in London said Singapore's breakaway will intensify Britain's search for alternative bases in the East. Defense experts said Britain may eventually give up its Singapore bases and move to new ones, perhaps in Australia and on the Indian Ocean islands.

not rely upon differences here at home to cause us to pull away from our commitment to South Viet Nam."

McNamara was asked whether Americans can stick out a 5-10- or 20-year war in Viet Nam. He replied that the armed forces. "I guarantee, can stand it, and I think the 180 million who stand behind them can stand it."

Reactions By Senators

Reaction of senators who attended Monday's briefings ranged from caution through enthusiasm. Several said they had heard nothing new.

But Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, who voted last year against the resolution giving the President wide authority to use armed forces in Viet Nam and has since been critical of U.S. policy there, said he had been heartened by the briefing. He added: "I think the President is making a greater effort than ever before to try to bring the issue to the conference table."

More Briefings

Johnson announced four more briefings this week to give all members of the House of Representatives a chance to hear and question the top executive officers concerned with the Viet Nam war. He said there will be a similar session Aug. 17 for representatives of business, labor and the professions.

McNamara denied that the United States seeks overthrow of the North Vietnamese government, or permanent military bases in South Viet Nam, or to force the South Vietnamese into a Western alliance. He said also he knows of no military adviser's recommendation for a U.S. build-up to 750,000 men in South Viet Nam.

The State Department meanwhile said it is not true that the United States had rejected last fall a proposal from North Viet Nam for peace talks. Press officer Robert J. McCloskey said the department is "not aware of any initiative that could have been described as a bid for peace talks."

and ripped open the hatch to the cramped chain locker, a dark hole too small to stand in.

He said he climbed inside, snapped the hatch shut and sat on the anchor chain.

"It was hot and dark," he said. "The sweat ran out of my ears."

He said he did not hear the shots that killed two more crewmen — one found in his bunk and the other on the deck where he had been sleeping.

Their identities were not established.

Capt. Rogelio Diaz was not found. But a trail of blood led from the bridge to the port rail and a single shower shoe was found at the deck's edge. The Coast Guard said it presumed the body was thrown overboard.

The search for the 14-foot skiff covered a vast expanse of water between Florida and the Bahamas, roughly 15,000 square miles, bisected by the Gulf Stream.

Cmdr. W. C. Wall of the Key West Coast Guard base said the skiff did not have a motor.

through the night bringing the bodies to the surface.

One of the survivors, Hubert A. Saunders, 59, of Conway, a paint foreman, said the fire might have resulted from the explosion of a diesel engine.

"The fire poured into the gun barrel (launch tube)," he said. "I was in there and so was the bird (missile) so I got out of there."

He said power failed in the silo after the fire flash and he groped his way out an emergency ladder. He was hospitalized.

Men Screaming

Another survivor, 18-year-old Gary Wayne Lay of Clinton, a laborer, said:

"It was horrible, I could hear men screaming and crying. Somebody was yelling 'Help me! God, help me!' I tried to go down the ladder, but the men were jammed up there, so I went up, through the fire."

Lay climbed an emergency ladder to safety. He suffered smoke inhalation and burns of the head, arms and legs.

Four Air Force crewmen in the control center of the complex — the most distant point from the launch area — got out unharmed.

At least eight other Air Force men and a number of civilians working above ground were not harmed by the blast.

Air Force rescue teams in asbestos suits climbed down into the 155-foot deep silo and carried bodies out of the upper levels — about 45 feet below ground level.

Some 100 relatives, clustered in small groups and talking quietly, waited under a full moon in the warm night air for word of the rescue operation. Air Force police kept everyone a half mile from the tube.

The first bodies were brought out at 7:20 p.m., about four hours after the blast.

The site is about 12 miles outside Searcy, a town of 8,000 about 50 miles northeast of Little Rock.

The fire broke out while carpenters, painters, millwrights, electricians and pipefitters were working in the complex.

The men were employees of Peter Kiewit and Son Co. of Aurora, Colo. The firm said it would withhold identities of the victims until all the men were accounted for.

Menominees Make Some Progress Despite Obstacles

Substandard Housing, Education, Cited as 2 of Many Problems

Post-Crescent News Service

KESHENA—Menominee County is not thriving, prosperous community.

But the general picture is not as bad as some have drawn it. And real progress has been made since termination of federal control over the Menominee Indian Reservation on April 30, 1961.

George Kenote, vice president for land use of Menominee Enterprises, Inc., seemed to express a prevalent spirit.

"I wasn't an advocate of termination, but the present situation is a darned good challenge for people with guts," he declared.

The problems, Kenote agreed with fellow Menominees, are many. Yet he felt they would be overcome, and pointed to areas where some progress is evident.

Similar views were expressed by a white friend of the Menominees, Judge Ken Trager of the Shawano-Menominee County Court.

Making Progress

"They are making progress all the way down the line," the judge asserted. He is a qualified observer, for he encounters Menominees regularly across the bench in the courtroom at Shawano, and counseled many during the years he was a practicing attorney at Gresham.

Some say the chief problem is the lack of money. Others say it is lack of direction and incentive. Perhaps it is as much one as it is the other: the two problems obviously are meshed.

James Boivin, grocer at Neopit, cited the recent report of the Menominee County Rural Area Development Committee. He is chairman of this potentiallv important body.

"It is an area which has been plagued with problems of unemployment, underemployment, lack of industry and general economic stagnation," the report observed.

Eugene Raddatz, county welfare director and a white man, stressed that too many of the Menominees fail to look at their problems.

Problems Existed

"They say it's all termination's fault, but all of the problems existed before," Raddatz added.

These seem to be the specific problem areas in Menominee, Wisconsin's smallest county.

Low income—Median family income for the state was reported in the 1960 Census as $5,926 for 1959. In what is now Menominee County it was $2,638. Some improvement is indicated since then, but reliable statistics are not available.

High unemployment—In 1963 the unemployment rate was 13.6 per cent when the state average was 4.0. In 1964 the corresponding rates were 18.1 and 3.7 per cent.

Large families—A health survey made in 1964 showed a birth rate of 43.4 per thousand when youngsters during the school the state average was 25 year He is the son of Mr. and Children average five per fami Mrs. Joseph Ryerson, 1345 W. ly. Of the 496 families, 311 had Rogers Ave four or more children and 50 had 10 or more.

Substandard education—According to the 1960 census, residents aged 14 and over averaged 8.3 years of school. The state average for rural nonfarm was 9.9 years. Some improvement is noted in the eral control over the Menominee Indian Reservation on April 30, 1961.

Substandard housing—The health survey placed the average value of houses in Neopit at $4,000. Housing in the county was rated one-third sound, one-third over-rated one-third sound, one-third deteriorated, and one-third dilapidated. Substantial progress, largely through the Farmers Home Administration, is occurring, however.

Poor health—Tuberculosis and diabetes are major concerns. Authorities assert health conditions generally are improving.

Alcoholism—"Excessive drinking constitutes one of the most destructive elements in family life," the health survey reported.

Infant health—The infant death rate of 63.1 or 1962, compared with 20.4 for the state.

Dependence on welfare—Reports for July, 1964, showed 14 per cent of the Menominee population receiving public assistance, contrasted with 2.6 per cent for the state as a whole.

Menominee County's population was 2,606 in 1960, with 1,321 males and 1,285 females.

Another 550 to 600 recognized as tribal members live and work outside the county, mostly in Milwaukee and Chicago. These "outsiders" must be considered a potential part of the community because many return during periods of unemployment.

Wolf River Basin Planner Meeting Thursday

The Wolf River Planning Commission's 24 commissioners and board chairmen from eight counties will hold their annual meeting Thursday in Laona. Chairman Gordon A. Bubolz will review the commission's recent accomplishments and future goals. The budget report and a plan for maintaining staggered terms for commissioners will be discussed. Reports will be heard on the forestry committee for roadside beautification, the technical advisory committee on water, and the recreation promotion. Members will eat a lumber-jack style dinner at Hotel Gordon after the meeting, and then ride on the 1916 locomotive train on the Laona and North-ern Railway.

Two Held in County Jail File Affidavits

Mrs. Bernice Oshefsky, 40, and Lawrence Peterson, 30, both of Bear Creek but with no permanent addresses, filed affidavits of prejudice against County Judge Gustave Keller Monday and are in the Outagamie County Jail awaiting further court action. Mrs. Oshefsky is charged with contributing to the delinquency of her minor child and disorderly conduct and Peterson is charged with disorderly conduct. Judge Keller ordered Mrs. Oshefsky held on $650 in bonds and Peterson on $150 bond until a new judge is appointed to hear their pleas. They were arrested by a Bear Creek constable who found them in the village along with Mrs. Oshefsky's 10-year-old daughter.

UW to House Food Research Institute

Knowles Says Food Production, Processing Industry to Benefit

MADISON — Relocation of the Food Research Institute to the University of Wisconsin campus from the University of Chicago next year will be a boon to the big and growing food production and processing industry of Wisconsin, Gov. Warren P. Knowles and university administrators said Monday.

Knowles, at a news conference, disclosed the plan for the transfer of the research program and staff to Madison, effective July 1, 1966.

The Wisconsin food industry is one of the basic enterprises of the state, and according to Knowles, is one that shows the brightest promise of continued growth and prosperity.

The Institute is supported by food industries and the National Institutes of Health. Its work is in food microbiology and toxicology, and it has operated on a budget of about $325,000 a year.

Agriculture School

University of Wisconsin President Fred H. Harrington, in an announcement made through the governor's office, said the Institute would become a wing of the College of Agriculture under the direction of Dr. E. M. Foster, professor of bacteriology. He noted that the food industry and its research problems are among the main interests of Dean Glenn Pound, new head of the College.

"The Institute will make it possible for us to expand our research and teaching activities in the food sciences, and will help us integrate the various activities now carried on in a number of departments," Harrington said.

"We are confident that industry will welcome and support a

Little Chute Youth Uninjured in Crash

LITTLE CHUTE — David Hammen, 12, 925 Jefferson St., Little Chute, escaped injury about 5:55 p.m. Sunday when the car he was driving west on W. Main Street left the road and broke off a Kaukauna Electric and Water Utility power pole.

According to police, Hammen was traveling west when he skidded sideways on the wet pavement, jumped the curb and struck the pole.

Signs Broken, Auto Damaged in Accident

KAUKAUNA — Two highway guide poles were broken and a car driven by Stephen R. Mayer, 22, 202 W. Seventeenth St., Kaukauna, extensively damaged about 10 p.m. Saturday when Mayer failed to negotiate a curve on Dodge Street.

Mayer was not hurt in the mishap.

Wisconsin Industry Shows Production Gains in Census

Wisconsin's industries reported a value-added-by-manufacture of $5.3 billion in 1963, an increase of 35 per cent over the value-added figure for 1958, according to a preliminary report of the 1963 Census of Manufactures issued by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census.

"Value added" approximates the value of products shipped minus the cost of materials used to manufacture the products.

Leading state's industrial production was nonelectrical machinery with a value-added total of $981 million, 28 per cent higher than in 1958, the last previous year of the Census.

In second place was food and kindred products with a value-added of $769 million, an increase of 23 per cent over 1958. Transportation equipment climbed 105 per cent in the five-year period to a total of $734 million while electrical machinery had a 1963 value-added of $533 million, almost 43 per cent higher.

The state's industries employed 462,154 as compared with 439,309 in 1958 and the payroll mounted from $2.2 billion to $2.6 billion in the same period.

The Milwaukee Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area, consisting of Milwaukee, Ozaukee and Waukesha counties reported a 1963 value-added of $2.2 billion, a gain of 26 per cent over 1958. The Kenosha SMSA, coextensive with Kenosha County, had a value-added of $343 million in 1963, a jump of almost 110 per cent over 1958.

No One Injured in Calumet Crash Sunday

CHILTON — No one was injured when a car driven by Edwin Sasnowski, 32, route 2, Kaukauna, collided with an auto driven by Michael Maynard, 20, Combined Locks at 1:10 a.m. Sunday, two miles north of Stockbridge on Calumet County Trunk EE.

Maynard told county police he had stopped at a stop sign when an auto rounding the corner hit his car.

Sasnowski said he was turning west when the accident occurred.

State Commission Vetoes Private Bridge Across Bay

MADISON — A plan of Myron Alberts of Brussels, Door County, for the construction of a private bridge across Green Bay from Sand Bay Point to Snake Island in the town of Naseweaupee has been vetoed by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission.

The commission action said the structure would be an impediment to navigation and would destroy the natural condition and the scenic beauty of the area.

Alberts wanted to build a marina on the island, but heavy opposition from several sources was recorded at a hearing on the proposal.

Influence on Son of Friend Who Steals Worries Reader

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: The only children in our neighborhood are two brothers, ages 3 and 7. My son is 5 and wants to play with these boys. But everytime the 7-year-old plays at our house, he takes something. Whatever he can put into his pocket goes home with him. For example, this week he took 75 cents and a key chain and some playdough. It isn't as if he had to steal to get playthings; he comes from a family of means and his father is very well known in his profession.

What can I do to help this child and to keep him from influencing my child? I have asked this boy to leave things here, but he simply ignores me. His mother never sends anything back, so I don't think she's concerned with his problem. Mrs. H.T.

Before getting involved in helping this boy, take care of your obligation to take care of your son. Help him find suitable playmates—boys two years older or younger aren't suitable for a boy your son's age. Make a point of arranging visits with the children your son has attended kindergarten with. And if you can't locate a playmate for a given afternoon, help your son learn to play alone enjoyably.

The parents of the 7-year-old may not even be aware of his petty thefts, so don't blame them for their failure to return the things he has taken. After all, if you had truly wanted him to leave your possessions in your home, you could have stopped him.

Remember, that it's up to the other parents to help their boy develop a healthy regard for property belonging to others. This isn't your right or responsibility. So simply tell them that their son has taken this, that, and the other, despite your reminders that he not take things. And let them take the ball from that point on.

Dear Dr. Jones: My teen-age

daughter has taken a full-time babysitting job and wants to do the best job possible. Please send me a checklist you recommend she look over so she can know what she needs to know. Thank you. Mrs. C.K.

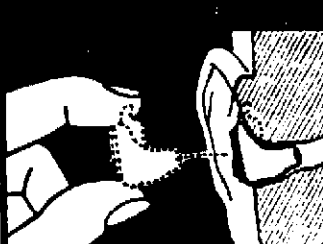

I don't recommend that teenagers act as babysitters except for a few hours occasionally, mainly when the child being cared for is asleep. A child needs a mature, full-grown woman as a mother or mother substitute, not a teen-ager. And a teen-ager shouldn't be expected to try to handle a job too big for her.

So ask your daughter to give up her babysitting job in favor of something she can handle adequately. If she has trouble finding something to keep herself occupied with, ask her to contact your local Youth Opportunities Board of Health Volunteers.

Sporty Look

The sporty look will still be with us this fall, but it shows a definite softening trend. Skirts are as often flared or pleated as straight; blouses might be softly bowed at the neck; sweaters are often softly belted tunics. It's a gentler, more feminine outlook on the sporting life.

Three days a week, for two weeks, YMCA day campers give their curiosity about the outdoors free rein. They roam the woods, fish, engage in sports, and learn such skills as how to handle an air rifle, archery, handicrafts and horseback riding.

The camp is conducted at Calumet County Park, which provides a full variety of opportunity for outdoor activity. The success of the program, initiated several years ago, is evident in the increased enrollment. This year 124 have signed up for the two-week sessions, more than double last year's number. Campers vary in age from seven to 12. Y membership is not required. The youngsters are transported to the camp area by bus, picked up within a few blocks of their homes at 8:30 a.m. and returned there before 5 p.m.

The hours between are filled with activity designed to do more than keep them busy. The campers are divided into groups of eight to ten, according to age. Each group has a trained high school counselor and a volunteer junior counselor.

Every camper is helped in learning to enjoy camp skills, with emphasis on sensing and appreciating the beauty and life of the woods. Sight, hearing and smelling are all part of the awareness encouraged in the young campers. While group unity is encouraged, each individual is made aware of and sensitive to the needs and feelings of fellow campers.

Craft projects help the boys and girls sort their experiences and keep them for later savoring. Each keeps a scrap book, including leaves, feathers, insects and mementoes of their outdoor days.

The children keep a listing of fellow campers, songs, drawings or other important events.

One of the most popular programs at the camp is horseback riding, for which Mrs. James Warrick is instructor. She is assisted with the effort by Tim Warrick, Ann Rosebush, Doris Green, Jeff Mueller, Dave, Scott and Chris McArt and Mary Miller. The youngsters learn safety procedures, as well as the various parts of a saddle and the care of a horse. They ride in a ring until they have acquired some skill, then, with a horse counselor riding behind each camper, a trail ride is taken.

Campers take their own sack lunches except for one noon when they cook in foil outdoors. On the final day of the session parents join their youngsters for a family picnic and campfire program. They, and brothers and sisters, are encouraged to try their skill at archery, riflery and riding.

Robert Tucker, Y young adult director, is director of the camp. Assisting as counselors are Julie French, Jim Miller, Karla Zimmerman, Liz McIntyre and Bill Bermann. Junior counselors are Sue Gosper, Scott Duthie, Sharon Strover, Diana Damsheuser and Bill Graves.

Mr. Tucker has announced that there are still several openings for the third session, Aug. 16 through 27. Registration may be made with the Y until Friday.

Archery is a skill all the youngsters want to acquire. Learning to handle bow and arrow are Tom Hale and Charles Searl, taught by Liz McIntyre.

Another favorite camp program of the boys is instruction in using an air rifle.

High Hems Swish to East Coast

By PIERCE LEHMBECK
NEW YORK (AP) — Those sky-high hemlines that have the British saying "Wow!" have swished into the Colonies. The reaction is approximately the same, with the addition of a little Yankee zest.

In a word: Yippee! The thigh-high skirts were modeled Monday night in a pair of ceiling-high "bird cages" at an East Side discotheque. A Greenwich Village shop showed them.

The feeling seemed to be that New York, where subways are for peeping, the skirts would go big.

Solved Problem

Also, the ingenious Americans appeared to have overcome a problem that had their British grills: Frank Reynebeau, re-cousins wondering how to stop freshments, charcoal, lighter: all that revealing.

The two young lovelies who modeled the outfits wore high Burgl and Fabian Ourada, knit stockings.

One outfit was described by

Revitalize Bread

Is bread that goes stale a problem in your house? You can make a stale loaf of bread taste bakery-fresh by dipping it in cold water for just a second — then heating it in a moderate oven for 10 or 15 minutes.

the demure young thing with a microphone as a stone-wool. A-line skirt with matching bulky-knit, boat-neck sweater. The skirt was of the same color, also the stockings.

The sweater, incidentally, reaches only two to three inches above the bottom of the skirt, and that's a couple of inches more than the skirt allows the knees. Price for the total outfit? About $23.

Another was a burgundy-wool. One question, though. When spring comes again, what happens to American ingenuity?

Only 'Insensitive Clod' Would Use School-Day Nickname

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I were at the ball game the other night and in the middle of the fifth inning a loud voice from behind bellowed "Well, if it isn't Dirty-Neck Swanson." I wanted to fall right straight through the bleachers. My husband turned around and there was a fellow he hadn't seen since grammar school in Springfield. The man and his wife moved to this city just a few months ago. They'd been meaning to look us up.

We have run into them twice since the ball game and it's always "Hello Dirty-Neck." This upsets me no end. In my opinion, "Dirty-Neck" is not an appropriate greeting for a grown man who is an attorney and a member of the school board.

My husband says he doesn't mind it — in fact he thinks it's funny. You know how nicknames catch on. I'm afraid this loudmouth might start some-thing. Any suggestions? — Livia Livia

Dear Liv: If it bothers you (and I can see your point) tell the Springfield Flash to knock it off. In dealing with insensitive clods the direct approach is the only way.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am incensed by the advice you gave the young widow with the 9-year-old son. She said the boy was full of conversation at the dinner table and her father-in-law made the boy be quiet because he didn't approve of talking at the table. You said kids should talk at the table and suggested that the mother and son eat first and let the old man eat alone if he wanted silence.

The trouble with kids today is they are all mouth. They run everything and everybody. They tell adults where to head in. They hit teachers and have no respect for authority. If a grandfather wants to discipline a boy by saying, "Shut up and eat That's what you're at the table for," he should do it. — Old Fashioned Father

Dear Old Fashioned: Sorry, Dad, but I don't call "Shut up and eat" discipline. It's more like a dictatorship — and in my book this is no way to raise kids.

Dinner time should be family time. And family time means conversation involving all members of the family — small fry included.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago I became engaged to a sweet girl. I've changed the date twice because frankly I'm scared. As the time gets closer I have the feeling I just can't go through with it. Meggie is a wonderful person but the fire is out, if you know what I mean. Ever since I gave her a ring it's like I got a dead battery.

To make matters worse, I think I'm in love with her sister. Gert is three years younger than Meggie and I didn't meet her until after we were engaged. The minute I looked at Gert I knew I had the wrong one.

A few weeks ago I jokingly asked Gert for a date. She told me to go soak my head in a rain-barrel. Please give me the straight word like you do everybody else. — Benie Meenie

Dear Benie: Now is a fine time to decide you've got a dead battery. Break up with Meggie at once. It would be unfair to marry her feeling as you do.

Date others and don't go near Gert for at least six months. If she refuses to go out with you after that I wouldn't blame her. You've taken up enough of the family's time. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Summer Interlude

Ruth Ann Hoeffner enjoys the concert from a secure position in her father's arms. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Hoeffner.

The lawn of Appleton High School was transformed into a stage for a presentation of the fine arts Thursday evening. Soft green grass provided a cushion for performers and musicians as well as a comfortable seat for the audience.

The combined art show, concert and original drama presentation brought to a close the 1965 summer session at the high school. The evening's program opened with a concert on the lawn at 7 p.m. Playing were the beginner's orchestra, beginners' band, junior band, high school band and the high school orchestra. Frank Comella, music coordinator, invited local people to play with the orchestra. Two plays written by members of the drama group were presented in the Century Theater which is constructed on the high school stage. The drama program also included original interpretation of two poems. Work of the summer students was featured in an art display.

Helen Klemmer Has Her Eyes on the band director and keeps time with two sticks during the concert Thursday evening. Her 'drum' is a blanket. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Klemmer.

Give Child Responsibility on Way to Independence

When the very young child in helping mother, he gains asks to help bake cookies or work practice and becomes pre-dust furniture, encourage him, pared to do things without being Although his assistance may told later on Give lots of praise seem more trouble than it's worth, it's during these years and work with him until he that the foundation for later feels the need to be indepen- work responsibility is laid dent. If the child has worked Because the little one delights with adults previously, this transition may come at ten or eleven.

Labor saving devices have freed people from many household duties. But even if there isn't a great deal of work to be done in your modern home, the child can be brought up with a sense of work responsibility. And there are good methods and reasons for helping them develop this responsibility.

Grown-Up Supervision
First, by working with adults, the child learns to get along with them. He also receives the grown-up supervision that's so important while he's learning tasks.

If a youngster participates in all phases of a particular project, he'll better understand and respect work. Have him help in the all steps involved in meal preparation, for example. His idea of what it's all about will be much clearer than if he simply does the dishes after dinner.

Work experience that's varied helps the child choose his own life's work more wisely. A teenager may take a summertime job that's not what you'd call interesting or glamorous. But it will give him an appreciation of others' work. And it will put him in a better position to judge what he would and would not like to do as a career.

Feeling of Worth
Perhaps the most meaningful contribution work can give the young person is the feeling of personal worth and family partnership it brings about. You can assist this process by letting your child know that the household chores you give him to do are important to the family. He'll feel he's really doing something if he knows tasks are more than just busy-work. Responsibility does not result from the repetition of drudgery, work willingly.

Stretch Fabric for Children's Clothing

Noted designer Florence Eiseman explains that she has selected stretch fabric for some of her latest children's clothing because it is so practical, rather than just for its "give." It is important, she notes, "because it has good body, wears well, and is easy to care for especially when accidental spills occur."

Any experienced mother will immediately equate this principle with washability, because "easy care" is almost synonymous with suds-and-water.

It grows from a desire to help mothers and to cope with problems that arise. Remember, household chores you give him to do are important to the family. He'll feel he's really doing something if he knows tasks are more than just busy-work. Responsibility does not result from the repetition of drudgery, work willingly.

Couple to Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

FREMONT — Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kloehn will mark their golden wedding at an Open House from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at St. Paul Lutheran Church. The couple was married at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, Readfield, and have lived in Fremont for 46 years. Mr. Kloehn is the fourth brother in his family to celebrate his 50th wedding anniversary.

Schuh Reunion Held at Preble

FREEDOM — The annual reunion of the late Peter and Anna Schuh family was held Sunday at Preble. There were 136 members present for the reunion.

The oldest family member was Clem Schuh and the youngest was Beth Van Dynhoven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Dynhoven. Frank and Gene Schuh were in charge of entertainment for the children.

The Rev. Earl Schuh, pastor of Holy Martyr Catholic Church, Preble, said a mass as part of the reunion observance.

Bride's Choice

It's proper etiquette to ask the mother of a bride-to-be if you want to know the girl's pattern choice in sterling silver flatware. Matching serving pieces to complement the parents' traditional gift of sterling place settings make a beautiful and most welcome gift.

Test Suit Before You Choose Plan

In some hands you plan to set, and you decide to draw trumps second trick lead a heart to the up a long suit, draw trumps and to protect dummy's ace of ace, cash the top clubs to then run the long suit. In others, spades. discard dummy's hearts, and you leave the trumps alone. Give yourself all the bst of it. You take dummy's king of diamonds, continue with a trump finesse, and then draw the last trump with the ace. Good guessing. You are now down only one.

When you win the first trick in dummy with the king of spades you are worried by East's jack of spades. You guess the jack is a singleton.

You can win all five of dummy's trumps and one ruff.

Pair Weds In Double Ring Rite

MONMOUTH, Ill. — Wedding promises were repeated by Miss Joyce Conway and Nolan Kollath, East Peoria, Ill., at 7 p.m. July 31 at the Fairview Center Evangelical United Brethren Church. Furniture
Cups Save Carpeting

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
 Q: We've just installed wall-to-wall carpeting on our first floor, all except the kitchen. Are there any special tricks to keep heavy furniture from putting deep dents in the new carpeting?

A: Out of the many types of furniture cups I've seen, probably the one best suited to this job is a type which supports the furniture on a cluster of stiff plastic pins.

The top half is the cup where the leg rests, the bottom half the cluster of pins. These fit down into the carpet fibers, instead of mashing them, and actually support the furniture so it doesn't really rest on the carpet at all.

These are available at most stores where furniture is sold.

Q: Every now and again the head flies off my hammer. I've already had my husband drive in some small metal wedges, which helped quite a bit, but not enough. Is there anything else I could try?

A: Get a coffee can full of old motor oil from a garage, and let the hammer stand on its head in it overnight. Wipe it off, let it dry for a week or so.

The oil will swell the wood fibers, just as if you'd stood the hammer in water. But it won't evaporate; at least for a long, long time. The handle will be thoroughly jammed into the head.

Q: I bought a dozen dinner plates at an auction. Even though they are definitely antiques, I was disappointed to find several of them with a brown stain I can't scrub off. Have you any suggestions?

A: Try what antique dealers do to whiten age-darkened china like ironstone: Make a fairly strong solution of household bleach, bring it to a boil with the plates in the solution.

Let it boil an hour, then stand overnight. You'll probably be delighted with the results in the morning.

Dear Louise: Please give me the correct way of announcing my engagement. I live with my father. My mother is dead but I would like to have her name too as making the announcement would it be proper?

Louise Davis Answers:

It wouldn't be correct or factual to have your late mother's name in the announcement. If you are submitting the information to your newspaper, you could begin: Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith to Mr. George William Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, adding their address or city. Then continue: Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. Joseph

Miss Davis

Smith (your address) and of the late Mrs. Smith. Be sure that your father signs the announcement as the newspaper would want his authorization.

Cake Cutters

The birthday cake, whole, is a masterpiece. But when it's served, it looks as though it had been cut with a hacksaw. Sound familiar? You can get smooth, even slices from any cake if you heat and wet the knife in boiling water, but don't dry it, before cutting the cake.

Johnson Approves Housing Measure

$7.5 Billion Rent Subsidy Program to Help Build Housing For Low Income Families

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today the $7.5-billion omnibus housing bill inaugurating a new program of rent subsidies to help build homes for low-income families.

The signing ceremony was scheduled for noon in the White House rose garden.

In addition to several new features, the measure contains additional authorizations to continue urban renewal, public housing and other programs for four more years.

Nearly all the controversy over the bill in Congress centered on the rent supplements, described by Johnson in his March housing message as "the most crucial new instrument in our effort to improve the American city."

6-Vote Margin

This provision was saved by a margin of only six votes in the House and seven in the Senate.

This was accomplished after leaders in both branches considerably revised the President's original proposal to make it apply to lower income families than he had intended.

The bill authorizes an expansion of the low-rent public housing program to cover 240,000 additional units and new methods of obtaining them.

Local authorities could finance 100,000 of the units by purchase or lease of existing housing, so that they might be scattered among privately owned homes. Heretofore, this program has been limited almost entirely to new construction.

A new feature in the bill is a program of grants to help impoverished homeowners fix up their properties so they can continue to live in them.

Benefit to Elderly

Grants of up to $1,500 could be paid to persons whose incomes are $3,000 a year or less. This is expected to benefit chiefly elderly persons.

The legislation authorizes an additional $2.9 billion for grants to the cities to continue the urban renewal program of slum

Nelson Hits Canada Auto Parts Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—A so-called free trade agreement between the United States and Canada on auto parts is "a trade policy which can lead only to disaster," Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said today.

Nelson said he became interested in the proposed agreement, which already has been ratified by the House, when Modine Mfg. Co. of Racine, Wis., complained it was losing sales for auto radiators through what it considered unfair Canadian competition.

American manufacturers were buying Canadian radiators even though they were no cheaper than Modine, Nelson said. He explained Canada was applying a "duty remission" plan under which a Canadian firm which sold radiators in the United States could import an equal amount of auto parts—or finished autos — into Canada duty free.

Nelson said this waiver of duty on imports constituted subsidizing of Canadian firms by the Canadian government.

Chinaman Gets Death Sentence in Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An Indonesian court in Surabaya has sentenced a Chinese trader to death for hoarding and violating President Sukarno's decree against economic subversion.

The court said Leim Koe Nio's activities had been "highly individualistic, capitalistic and monopolistic in nature."

Injections of Gamma Globulin

Research Offers Hope For RH Factor Births

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Development of a technique that offers preliminary hope of preventing the potential tragedy of "RH babies" and assuring their normal health was reported today.

A Johns Hopkins University scientist said encouraging, but still tentative, results had been achieved in tests in the United States and England employing injections of gamma globulin, a blood fraction, in women faced with the possibility of delivering such babies.

RH babies are those whose blood, while they're still in the womb, is incompatible with that of their mothers, these are babies conceived by an RH-negative mother and an RH-positive father, with the baby inheriting the RH-positive factor from the father.

Second Child

In the first pregnancy, usually nothing untoward happens to the baby. But in a small but still significant percentage of cases, the mother may become sensitized to RH-positive blood during that pregnancy and a future pregnancy can be dangerous for the next child.

The baby may be born with a serious blood abnormality called erythroblastosis, and a complete exchange transfusion of new blood may be required to save the baby's life.

The new technique designed to prevent such emergencies was described by Dr. Julius Krevans at a special summer course on medical genetics conducted by Johns Hopkins and the Jackson Laboratory for Genetics Research at Bar Harbor.

The course is sponsored by the National Foundation-March of Dimes organization.

Offset Incompatibility

The new method is aimed at imitating a situation in which mother nature herself sometimes prevents potentially tragic occurrences. That is if the particular blood groups of the mother, father and child otherwise add up to a certain combination, the bad effect of RH incompatibility may be offset.

In the technique, an injection of gamma globulin is given to potentially susceptible mothers right after they have delivered

Regulations Cover Matter

17-Year-Old's Status in Viet Nam To be Subject of Army Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army headquarters has asked commanders in South Viet Nam how many youths under 18 are in the war zone and whether any of them are there contrary to regulations.

The inquiry was prompted by news reports from Saigon that about 100 enlisted men of the 173rd Airborne Brigade might be sent out of Viet Nam because of their age.

The Army, alone of the four services, has a regulation prohibiting overseas deployment of any soldier under 18 if he is not in the Regular Army. This means draftees under 18 must not be sent overseas.

If official reports from the Viet Nam command show there are nonregular Army enlisted personnel under 18 there now, headquarters will want an explanation of how it happened.

The armed forces, with present worldwide manpower of about 2.6 million, apparently have about 68,000 enlisted personnel younger than 18, according to data supplied today in answer to questions.

Of the total, approximately 17,000 are in the Army, 5,000 in the Marines, 16,000 in the Navy and 30,000 in the Air Force.

A small proportion are 17-year-olds who went to local draft boards and requested that they be called into service.

These are the nonregular personnel, who have the advantage of serving their active duty obligation in a year less time than they would if they enlisted in the service as regulars.

An Army spokesman said today that a sample survey conducted last November showed that two per cent of the total

Army strength at that time consisted of 17-year-olds. During 1964, fewer than 500 were in the category of 17-year-old volunteer draftees. All 17-year-olds must have parental or guardian consent to enter the service.

Indian Sun Dance Hoped to End War in Viet Nam

FORT WASHAKIE, Wyo. (AP) — Wind River Reservation Indians say they will perform a three-day sun dance starting Wednesday in an effort to bring peace to Viet Nam.

The Indian patriarch and spiritual leader, Alessandro Wesaw, 79, will lead the dance.

Wesaw also led a special sun dance in 1944 during World War II.

The dance will begin at sundown Wednesday and participants will dance and fast until Saturday at sundown.

Federal Registrars Assigned in South

Justice Department Starts Court Action to Prohibit Poll Taxes

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal registrars begin placing Negroes on the voting rolls of nine Southern counties today — with no questions asked about their intelligence.

And the Justice Department goes to work in the federal courts of Texas, Virginia and Alabama to seek an end to poll taxes as a requirement for voting in state and local elections.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 got up a full head of steam Monday night when Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach — after a day of study and telephone consultations — designated those counties where past experience led him to believe examiners, all regular Civil Service Commission employees, would be needed.

Three States

The counties are in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

The first one on the Justice Department's list was Dallas County, Ala. That's where Selma is, and Selma is where racial violence flared last spring just before President Johnson called for legislation to guarantee the right to vote to Southern Negroes.

Immediately upon Katzenbach's announcement of the nine counties in which federal registration will be launched, Chairman John W. Macy of the Civil Service Commission sent two examiners to each.

They were to open offices in six post offices, one federal building and two other locations in the nine counties this morning.

New Requirements

Negroes who have been turned away before now may fill out a simple application form — or have it filled out for them if they're illiterate — and be placed on the voting rolls simply by meeting such requirements as age, residence and a record clear of felony convictions.

Meanwhile, Justice Department lawyers put the finishing touches on suits to be filed in Austin, Richmond and Montgomery attacking the state poll tax requirements. These suits are required of the attorney general by the new law. The first was filed Saturday challenging Mississippi's poll tax.

The federal registrars were assigned to Leflore and Madison Counties in Mississippi; Dallas, Lowndes, Hale and Marengo in Alabama, and East Carroll, East Feliciana and Plaquemines Parishes (counties) in Louisiana.

Reuss Calls Son's Rights Work Vital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., called the civil rights work of his son, Michael, 18, in the South necessary Monday and said the Stanford University sophomore would continue teaching Negro children in West Point, Miss., the rest of the summer.

Reuss, who returned Monday from West Point where his son had been detained in the death of a state highway patrolman, said, "He thinks that his job of teaching Negro children reading and writing is necessary both to make the voting rights act meaningful and for the good of the country generally. So do I."

The younger Reuss was accused of manslaughter after a highway patrol investigator, B. Cowart, 53, died of a heart attack while searching him after his arrest in a demonstration Friday. The charge was dismissed Saturday and the student was freed after being fined on two minor counts growing out of the demonstration.

School Board Okays Teacher Stipend Change

Appleton Heads to Get Extra 5 Per Cent
Of Annual Salary

The Appleton Board of Education Monday approved a change of salary stipend for head teachers at Badger, Twin Willows and Woodlawn schools at the meeting Monday evening.

William Spears, superintendent of schools, recommended that what had originally been an additional $200 salary stipend be changed to five per cent of the head teacher's base salary. "These staff members have a full teaching assignment, and put in additional time beginning Aug. 15 through June 15 administering the affairs of their individual buildings and completing the necessary reports for the Central Board of Education Office," Spears said.

The head teacher at Badger School is Thomas O'Hearn whose salary, under the new contract will be $7,545. William F. Schein, head teacher at Woodlawn, will receive $8,605 and Elmer Kelley, head teacher at Twin Willows, will get $7,497.50.

4 Teachers Resign
Spears also announced the resignation of four elementary teachers. They are Mrs. Janice Jansen, Twin Willows, Mrs. Barbara Mader and Mrs. Pearl Vander Wielen, Franklin, and Conrad Oppenorth, Huntley.

However, two of the positions have already been filled, he said.

Contracts have been signed by Mrs. Cynthia Cook for a base salary of $5,300 and Mrs. Antoinette Durben for $5,000. Mrs. Cook will teach primary II at Franklin and Mrs. Durben has been hired for primary III at Twin Willows.

This leaves only two vacancies at the elementary level, Spears said. All vacancies at filled.

French Teachers Needed
Spears told the board that teachers for the elementary French program had not been found. However, he said the foreign language program at the junior high school level is improved. The system now has a six-year program in French and Spanish.

In other business, the board accepted the recommendations of William Knuth, business affairs director, to award fuel contracts to low bidders.

The contract for approximately 650 tons of coal will be awarded to J. P. Laux and Son, Appleton, for their low bid of $12.65 per ton.

The contract for No. 2 fuel oil will be awarded to Gustafson Oil Co., Green Bay, on its low quotation of 9.99 cents per gallon for approximately 59,000 gallons. The contract for No. 5 fuel oil will be awarded to the United Oil Co., Appleton, on the low bid of 10.91 cents per gallon less 1 per cent for approximately 180,000 gallons.

Kiwanis Club Sends Delegates to Session

Larger Gains Seen for Next Decade

K-C Predicts More Than $1 Billion Business for Disposable Products

NEENAH—Shipments of sanitary and household paper products will exceed $1 billion this year for the first time, according to an analysis by Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Company economists point out that dollar value of production by the sanitary product disposables sector of the U.S. paper industry has grown more than 30 per cent since 1960, and they forecast growth of 80 per cent to $1.85 billion, by 1975. The figures are based on wholesale prices.

Included in the sanitary paper category are such products as facial and bathroom tissues, feminine sanitary protection products, table napkins, towels, wipers and other similar "use and throw away" items.

The K-C researchers said the

Supervisors Promise Land For University Site in County

Green Bay Citizens Committee Also Working Toward Selection

Outagamie County supervisors' committee and the executive today unanimously favored a resolution which would guarantee any land within the county to a four-year university site selection committee if it favored establishment of the school. The resolution was drafted by a Kaukauna Chamber of Commerce committee last week and endorsed and favored by the county's institution and welfare committee to locate the proposed school near Kaukauna or Appleton.

16-Hour Contract Talks Fail at Appleton Machine Co.

Labor and management at Appleton Machine Co., after 16 hours of negotiation, failed to reach accord early today, reportedly differing on a no-strike clause.

A spokesman for the company, which was struck July 8 by members of the International Association of Machinists, said the firm wants the clause included in the proposed two-year contract. He said the company is determined to maintain it because of "the increased frequency of wildcat strikes."

Term Of Contract
It would only be for the term of the contract, he said.

The spokesman said three-quarters of the labor contracts signed throughout the country, which was struck July 8, included such provisions.

In negotiations during the weekend, both sides agreed on the proposed two-year contract, but the no-strike-no lockout provision remained undecided.

He said the company is determined to maintain it because of "the increased frequency of wildcat strikes."

Facial Tissue Business
In the facial tissues field the company predicted steady overall growth from $117 million in 1960 to about $230 million by 1975.

Table napkins shipments this year will amount to $120 million, the fastest growing product group in the U.S. industry and will average more than 15 per cent annually for the last ten years, K-C statistics indicate.

In the institutional field the biggest increase is being noted by wipers, used largely by service and industrial firms. The Forecast of a 150 per cent increase in this market in the next decade are noted by the company's statistical analysts.

Sales Record for Meat
CHICAGO (AP)—The American Meat Institute says that total sales of the nation's meat packing industry reached a record $14.6 billion last year. This is the two per cent above the $14.25 billion record of 1963.

Outagamie Board Sets Realignment

Home Mutuals Late Founder To Be Honored

Aug. 22 Set for Appleton Ceremony
For Julius Bubolz

The memory of the late Julius Bubolz, founder of Home Mutuals, will be honored at special commemorative ceremonies to be staged on Aug. 22 at the Home Mutuals building in Appleton.

Bubolz was born on that date in 1862, and the gathering of some 350 persons is intended to recognize his contributions, and to celebrate the 65th anniversary of the firm he founded.

Guests of Home Mutual's president, Gordon A. Bubolz, son of the founder, will be agents of the firm and their families, local dignitaries and industrial heads.

Channel 11 Program

The program will begin at 2 p.m. with an assembly and registration. The program will open with remarks by Bubolz and vocal selections by Mrs. Bubolz. An address will be given by a nationally known speaker.

At 4:30 p.m. several television sets in the room will be turned on (Channel 11, WLUK-TV, Green Bay) and the documentary telecast will be shown. North Shore Golf Club will be the setting of a social hour and dinner.

The story of Home Mutuals — The Home Mutual Insurance Co., and the Homestead Mutual Insurance Co. — is called "65 in '65." It was just 65 years ago that Home Mutuals was founded to solve the problems occasioned by storms that swept Wisconsin disastrously.

Founded Church

Julius Bubolz was farmer, town clerk, school clerk and Justice of the Peace. A deeply religious man, he founded the Emmanuel Lutheran Church of Cicero in 1884, and served as its secretary for 58 years.

Gordon Bubolz, son of the founder, learned the insurance business from his father and added to his background with education in law, finance, economics and insurance.

His range of interests are extensive. He served as Wisconsin State Senator from 1944 to 1953, became an expert in agricultural economy, and is engaged in civic activities.

Appleton Woman Hurt In 2-Car Collision Involving Police Auto

Richard W. Gardner, 25, 1520 N. Racine St., was the driver of a car which was involved in a collision early Sunday morning with an Outagamie County traffic patrolman, Edward Metko on County Trunk 00.

A passenger in the Gardner car, Mrs. Leo Schroeder, 58, 413 W. Northland Ave., complained of a sore neck and was hospitalized overnight at Appleton Memorial.

Metko was answering an emergency call when his squad car collided with the Gardner car which was turning off the driveway into Mrs. Schroeder's driveway. Metko said he had his siren operating when the accident occurred.

Okays Overtime Adjustment

Appleton Council Committee Rejects Firemen Demands

The City of Appleton Monday night rejected all but a minor overtime adjustment in demands made by Local 257, International Association of Firefighters.

The firemen had requested a total pay raise of 13 per cent, longer vacations, shorter hours and other fringe benefits.

Max Hensel, chairman of the council's personnel committee, which does the city's labor negotiating, told the firemen's committee the city favored the state bureau of personnel pay scale.

The union's demand included a 3 per cent cost-of-living raise, and a 10 per cent raise to bring

Cyclist Injured In Crash With Auto on U. S. 41

Dale Rohm, 19, 834 W. Brewster St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received when the motorbike he was driving was involved in a collision with a car on U.S. 41 near U.S. 10 today.

County police said the Rohm motorcycle swerved into the path of a car being driven by Harvey Luedtke, 53, 355 Meadow Lane, Neenah. Rohm was taken to the hospital by Larry's Ambulance Service.

Two young motorcyclists received cuts and bruises when machines they were driving collided on S. Glendale Avenue about 3:15 p.m. Monday. One of the cycles was pushed over a lawn and damaged a tree in the 600 block of W. Glendale Avenue.

Appleton police said Gary L. Wieseler, 18, 520 W. Sunset St., and Michael D. Gibbons, 17, 2422 N. Richmond St., were driving their machines east on Glendale when Wieseler slowed down and was struck by the Gibbons machine, pushing Wieseler and his motorcycle over the lawn and against a tree.

$24,094 Collected

Cancer Crusade Passes '65 Goal in Outagamie

A total of $24,094 was collected in the 1965 Outagamie County Cancer Crusade, according to Dr. Robert Johnson, crusade chairman. This is $1,749 over the goal of $22,345.

Members of the Outagamie County Cancer Society who attended the group's quarterly meeting Monday night were told their volunteer services.

The 1965 drive was the most successful to date.

$7,820 For Research
Of the total collected, $7,820 will be used for research, $3,450 for public health education and training for physicians, dentists and nurses; and Honkamp.

Kaukauna to Follow Its Ward Lines

Outagamie County's board of supervisors this morning completed the lengthy and somewhat tedious process of reapportioning itself.

By a vote of 50 to 3, the board adopted a plan recommended by the executive committee which sets up 47 supervisory districts in the county. However, the plan which was finally approved contained one major amendment which allows Kaukauna's five supervisory districts to follow the city's recently restricted ward lines.

The only "no" votes came from Supvs. Stanley Perkins (Dale), Ervin Conradt (Bovina) and Edward Peotler (Osborn). Under the new plan, which will go in effect April 1, 1966, Appleton's representation will be increased from 20 to 21 supervisors, the village of Kimberly's from one to three and the village of Little Chute's from one to two.

Grand Chute Up

The only town getting increased representation will be Grand Chute.

Districts with unchanged representation will be Kaukauna (five) and the towns of Oneida and Freedom (one each).

Representation in the City of Seymour will be reduced from two to one.

Other new supervisory districts will be made up of the following combinations—Village of Combined Locks-Town of Buchanan (two supervisors), towns of Kaukauna-Vandenberg, towns of Ellington-Center, towns of Greenville-Dale, Village of Hortonville and Town of Hortonville, New London's Third Ward and Town of Liberty, towns of Black Creek-Osborn.

Kaukauna, 3 Villages to Get Local Bus Runs

Company's Service To Communities Approved by PSC

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Local bus service within the City of Kaukauna, the villages of Little Chute, Combined Locks, and Kimberly, and the Town of Grand Chute by Kaukauna Bus Service, Inc., was authorized today in an order of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission.

The company is owned by Elwood and James Kobussen, co-partners, of route 3, Kaukauna.

The Kobussens have had authority for inter-urban bus service on U.S. 96 between Appleton and Kaukauna and intermediate points.

Only Taxi Service
They told the PSC they have had many requests for local service in the communities and that no public passenger service other than taxi transportation of passengers will follow routes approved by the local governing boards and the PSC.

The PSC says that service will be provided according to fares now in effect. The new service will accommodate the public interest, the commission said.

The new corporation, formed June 29, represents a change in the legal organization of the Kobussen partnership. The former partners are the owners and officers of the corporation. The PSC said the operation and management of the business will not change.

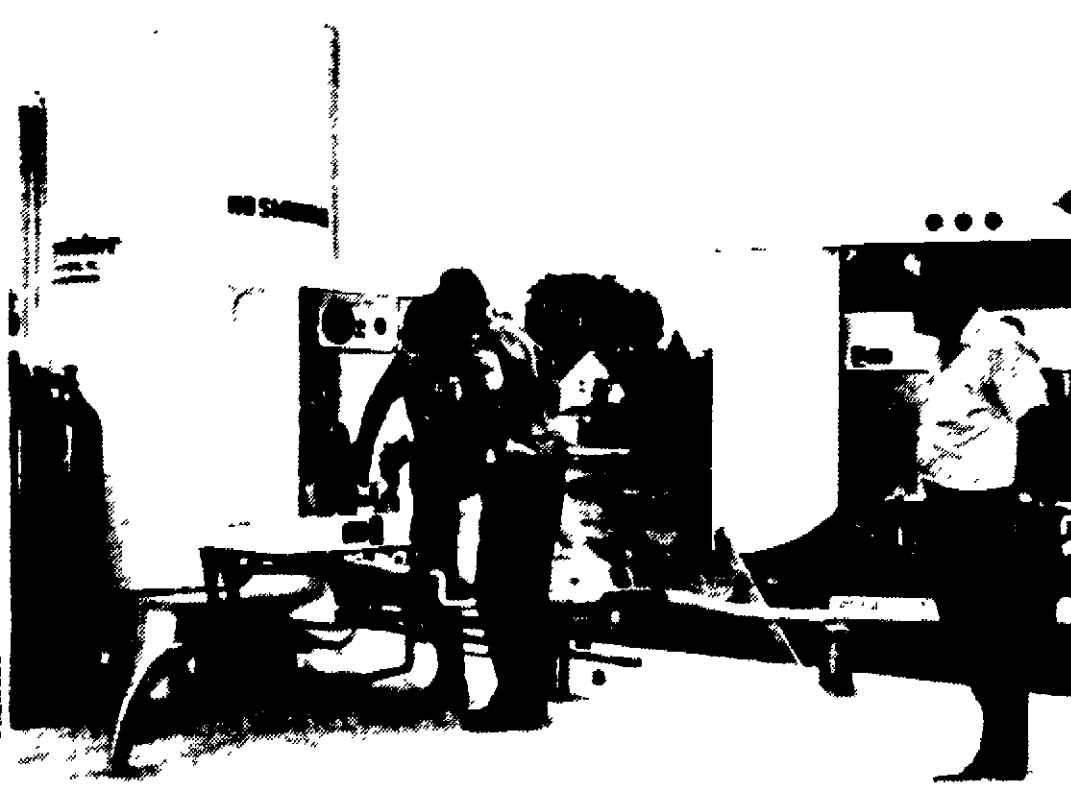

Appleton Woman Is Daughter of Couple Killed in Plane Crash

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hickman, Milwaukee, who were killed in Saturday's airplane crash near Boulder Junction, Wis., were the parents of Mrs. Richard Calder, 1233 E. Byrd St., Appleton.

The Calders, who have lived in Appleton for the past 10 years, will attend the funeral for her parents Wednesday at Milwaukee.

Knowles Says Too Early To Pick Site Committee

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles told a news conference Monday appointments to a committee to study sites for new institutions of higher education in the Racine-Kenosha area and northeastern Wisconsin will not be announced until he signs legislation planning the schools.

Town Promises to Fight City Annexation Attempt

Chairman Roland Kampo Vows To Beat Menasha in Attempt To Get Valuable Heartland

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA—More than 300 Town of Menasha residents filled Sabre Lanes Monday night to hear town officials promise them, with their support, they would beat the City of Menasha's attempt to annex a large portion of the town.

Town Chairman Roland Kampo told the large gathering the town was working on legal aspects to block the annexation but said they did not want to make their actions public at the present.

Most of the two-hour session was devoted to condemning tactics used by the city in seeking the annexation, answering questions about the annexation attempt, the town's proposed water system and complaining that the newspaper coverage has favored the cities in matters of annexation.

The public hearing-type meeting was partially the result of the News-Record breaking the story of the city's intention to circulate petitions for annexation of 350 acres of town land. The city has since amended the annexation petition to delete about 60 acres.

Town officials railed Menasha leaders for lack of cooperation while commending Appleton and Neenah for their willingness to work together with the town.

Mitchell, who attended the meeting, was given a warm round of applause when he was introduced and called upon to speak.

Kampo said the city used "low" methods to attempt the annexation. "Mr. Steffens (City Atty. Richard Steffens), we understand, and one of the police officers, and some people told me the chief of police, went to these property owners and they told them all of the business places on Midway Road were in favor of annexing to the city," Kampo said.

He added "we have not run across one person on Midway Road that is in favor of going into the city. This was used as propaganda."

Panic Town

The town chairman called it a plan to panic the town. "In the other words they feel there is a certain number of people who would sooner live in Menasha. Get the people to panic and they run and petition for annexation. Well, I don't think we have to do this. I think that if we just talk to one another, talk to your neighbors and if anyone approaches them tell them you are not interested."

Kampo then hit at newspaper coverage of the situation. "And, if you notice the news-papers, the way they print things they do not do any favors to the township either. I know they have to print this tomorrow and maybe they will condemn your town chairman."

Menasha Cuts Sought Addition to 290 Acres

MENASHA — The city of Menasha has reduced its proposed 350 acre annexation package in the Town of Menasha to about 290 acres.

The city, in an amended notice of intent to circulate annexation petitions in the town, deleted three legal descriptions and revised another, from the original notice published last Thursday.

Mayor John Klein said this morning the deletions were made because the property owners involved had decided not to go along with the annexation plan.

Largest Deletions

The largest deletions were two parcels owned by Howard Fritsch — one parcel of about 27 acres and the other 18 acres and include those of McMahon Engineering 4 acres; Winnebago Corp. 4 acres; J. A. Pockel, 0.75 acres; David Miringoff, 4.60 acres, and the Town of Menasha, 2 acres.

With the revised notice, the city's proposed annexation area has been cut from 350 acres to about 290 acres. Included in the remaining package is the 81.58 acre parcel purchased by the city last week for "industrial park purposes."

The city's annexation committee met Monday night with some of the property owners involved in the annexation attempt.

Property Owner

Menasha's declaration of intent to circulate an annexation petition in the area was announced in a legal notice published Thursday signed by Mayor John Klein. The move was made possible because the city, after purchasing the indus-

Appleton Businessmen Aid Red Feather Drive

24 Men Named as 'Loaned Executives' Will Give 1 Week of Company Time for Project

For the third year, 24 men from Appleton business and industry are giving of their own and their company's time to serve as "loaned executives" for Appleton's United Red Feather campaign.

Each company who "loans" an executive promises one week of the executives time to the United Red Feather campaign. However, each man spends his own time in training meetings which bring him up to date on the agency budgets and services, campaign structure and "fair share" giving on the payroll and executive plan.

Harold Adams, president of the First National Bank of Appleton, is the 1965 chairman of the loaned executive division. Adams was a member of the United Community Services board of directors from 1954 to 1964 and president in 1967. He was chairman of the campaign in 1955.

Three veterans in the loaned executive division are working for the third year. They are Scott Brammer, Riverside Paper Corp.; Richard Dertus, Northwestern Mutual Life, and Bruce Robertson, Home Mutual Insurance Co.

Six men are working in their second campaign—Glenn F. Allen, Sears Roebuck & Co.; Beck Fisher, First National Bank; James Lueck and John Van Dyke, both of Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.; Don Schultz, Miller Electric Manufacturing Co., and Graham Werner, Appleton State Bank.

New loaned executives this year are Alfred D. Bosser, Appleton Coated Paper Co.; Joseph Collard, Appleton Mills; Carl Dahms, Post-Crescent; Jack Fumal, Tuttle Press; Herbert Haller, Appleton Wire Works; Gordon Henrickson and W. C. St. John, both of Wisconsin Telephone Co.; William Johnson, J. C. Penney Co.; Jerome Laubenstein, Aid Association for Lutherans; Kenneth Loos, Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.; Tom McGuire, H. C. Kiwanis to Hear Justice of State Supreme Court

Thomas Fairchild To Speak on Work in Constitution Revision

Thomas E. Fairchild, Madison, a member of the State Supreme Court, will address the Appleton Kiwanis Club at the group's noon meeting Wednesday at the Conway Hotel.

He is expected to discuss his work on the Governor's Commission on Constitutional Revision for the state. This concerns recent considerations to re-write the state constitution rather than instituting changes by amendment referendums. As chairman he has worked with the Commission on Constitutional Division under governors Nelson, Reynolds and Knowles.

Several persons who are active in judicial matters within this area have been invited to be guests of Appleton Kiwanis to hear Judge Fairchild. They include Urban P. VanSusteren, Outagamie county judge, Branch 1; Gustave J. Keller, county judge, Branch 2; Raymond P. Dohr, county judge, Branch 3, and Andrew W. Parnell, circuit judge for Outagamie, Langlade and Shawano counties. Gordon A. Bubolz, president of the Outagamie Bar Association, also has been invited to attend the luncheon meeting and program.

Body of Girl, 10, Found in Pickerel Lake

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The body of a Wausau girl, object of an extensive search in the northern Wisconsin woods, was found Monday in an Oneida County lake.

The bodies of three other weekend drowning victims were also recovered in northern Wisconsin and from the Mississippi River.

The 10-year-old girl, Paulette Langlois, had strayed from the Buffalo Lake campgrounds in the American Legion State Forest east of Woodruff where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Langlois, were on a weekend outing.

She was found drowned in Pickerel Lake less than a mile from the campgrounds. More than 40 volunteers had searched the heavily wooded area Sunday and Monday.

Another child, Robert Brave Jr., 3, Little Rock, Ark., drowned Sunday in Bass Lake near Land O'Lakes in adjacent Vilas County.

The bodies of Merrill Ludovissy, 39, and his sister - in - law, Mrs. Ivanell Ludovissy, 36, both of North Buena Vista, Iowa, were recovered from the Mississippi River Monday near Cassville.

They drowned Sunday when a pleasure boat struck an object in the river and sank. A passing rowboat rescued six other persons.

Briton Loses Second Son to Traffic Crashes

WIMBORNE, England (AP)—For the second time in six weeks, cafe owner Andreas Constantinos has lost a son in a traffic crash on a stretch of road called Gravel Hill.

Six weeks ago John Constantinos, 22, lost his life when his car and another crashed. Constantinos' 18-year-old son Louis was killed in a three-car crash Sunday.

Provisional National Kashmir Government Begun in Indian Sector

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — A provisional national government of Kashmir has been formed inside the Indian sector of Kashmir, Radio Pakistan said today.

The announcement was first made by Radio Sada Kashmir, the voice of the anti-Indian Kashmir Revolutionary Council. Members of the provisional government were not identified.

Radio Pakistan said it appealed to the United Nations to help "the people of Kashmir in their fight for liberation."

India sent more troops into the Himalayan state Monday, reporting that Pakistan had sent hundreds of agents into the Indian sector "to create chaos and indulge in widespread sabotage."

Park Board Considers Budget Items

Possibility of Hiring Watchman Considered

The Appleton Park Board Monday afternoon devoted its thoughts to items to be included in budgets this fall.

Included in these considerations was the possibility of hiring a watchman for the city's parks during the summer. This would be done, board members said, in hopes of cutting down vandalism.

Park board members also said they hope to include in the budget request funds for a planner to survey the park system and set out proposals for development of the system.

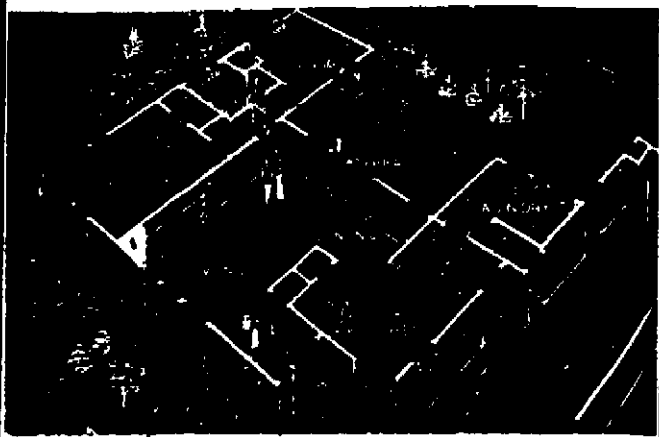

A master plan is being drawn for the city, but it does not include details of park development.

Also requested would be about $10,000 for development of a site of less than seven acres near the new high school as a neighborhood park.

William Wachtendonk, board president, said plans and specifications for development of Bellaire Park are expected within the next two weeks.

Legislators Recess Without Voting Highway, Motor Vehicle Budgets

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — An indication of the untidy manner in which the legislature ended its deliberations and took a 65-day recess is the fact that it failed to enact a new biennial budget for two major state agencies, the state highway department and the motor vehicle department.

Earlier in the year there was excited talk about the "crisis" in the capitol resulting from a month of delay in the enactment of a new general fund budget. Officials of the highway and motor vehicle departments now wryly contemplate similar difficulties in their own agencies, without any expressions of public concern.

There is reason to believe, in fact, that some officials of the state administration encouraged the delay in the enactment of the new highway services budget because of disputes about some of the policy proposals they had written into it. More revealing, however, is that the budget was passed over without the knowledge of most of them in the legislature.

When Gov. Knowles renamed Francis Conway as a member of the consumer credit review board the episode represented one of the few choices of Democrats for state office likely to be made during the current Republican state administration. As it happens, Conway is an old and good friend of the governor. But there is no doubt about his Democratic loyalties, nevertheless. He is involved in most of the major activities of his party, including national conventions. Often he has been urged to run for state office, but he prefers the role of party patriarch and elder statesman.

The preoccupation of some new media with race relations sometimes takes curious turns. Recently, for example, the office of the state attorney general hired several new assistants, as a result of budget authorizations enacted by the legislature. But the announcement in one of the Madison papers singled out one of them, because he happened to be a Negro. The statehouse community wasn't informed about the identity of the other newly recruited lawyers who will hold considerable rank in the capitol hierarchy.

George Field, an aide of President Harrington of the University of Wisconsin and legislative agent for the school, has taken a leave of absence for a foundation research project in England that will keep him away for nearly a year.

Emmons L. Roettiger, the state chief highway engineer who recently retired from that job and who probably knows more about the Wisconsin highway system than any other man now living, has been retained by the highway administration in consultative capacity.

Robert L. Pierce, the Republican national committeeman for Wisconsin and the ranking veteran of state Republican politics, has returned from a trip around the world with his wife, reportedly having collected a new fund of stories to fortify his stature as a raconteur.

The new law which permits county welfare departments to use commodity vouchers instead of cash payments for aid to dependent children recipients reflects a problem in Milwaukee, and is not likely to be used extensively outside that metropolitan district.

The voucher method is directly contrary to federal government rules, and therefore any county that employs it must forfeit the federal share of the relief grant involved. The federal contribution amounts to about one third, which will serve as a brake on unnecessary use of the voucher plan. Milwaukee officials insisted upon the enabling act, nevertheless, because of problems peculiar to the relief caseload in that community.

Gov. Knowles believes there is a good chance for salvaging one of the important remaining proposals of his highway safety legislation program in the fall session of the legislature. Several leading Democrats have said privately they are willing to consider seriously the plan for a system of regular motor vehicle inspections.

The most important of the Knowles bills thus far side-tracked — requiring the consent of drivers suspected of intoxication for chemical tests — remains in committee and is dead in practical terms, although the governor will continue to campaign for it in the hope that it may be enacted some day.

In his quiet way, Speaker Robert Huber is rising in the councils of the state Democratic party organization, in part because of his calm and poised performance as No. 1 man in the Democratic assembly this year.

There is occasional talk about the possibility that the veteran law-maker may want to rise in the elective system, by claiming a place on the state party ticket next year, for example. Those who know him best, however, doubt that he will make such an effort. Huber aspired to the speakership of his house for years, enjoys the work and is proud of the office, and is not likely to risk giving it up for the doubtful chance of winning another state-wide office in a state-wide election. His West Allis district is about as safe for a Democrat as any incumbent could desire.

Because the Dow-Jones average is so often misused, they often given an erroneous impression of what investors are gaining or losing. When large Dow-Jones point changes are written, usually tied to the total market value of the stock market, they naturally by well-informed commentators into billion-dollar figures. These figures exaggerate gains and losses.

There are other respected Jones average of 30 industrial averages: those of Standard & Poor, Moody's, the major news services, for instance. But the historical continuity and the special reputation of the Dow-Jones probably will keep it in first place. Actually, although the average is so imperfect, its 30 stocks represent roughly 37 percent of the market value of all listed issues and over the long pull, it does show the basic trend of stock prices.

Here are excerpts from "The Exchange" table converting the Dow-Jones average in points to dollars and cents per share as of July 1965.

California Educator Is Dean Of WSU-O Business School

OSHKOSH—Dr. Robert P. Hungate, San Diego, Calif., has been named head of the newly formed School of Business Administration at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh. Dr. Roger E. Guies, university president, has announced.

Dr. Hungate was an associate professor finance and the director of the bureau of business and economics research at San Diego State College at the time of his appointment at WSU-O.

At Oshkosh, Dr. Hungate will head one of the fastest growing areas of the university. The hundreds of students and number of majors offered in the business area led the university to formulate a school of business administration this summer.

Majors offered in the new school include accounting, finance, marketing and general business administration.

Some 850-900 students are expected to be enrolled in the new school this fall.

At San Diego State, Dr. Hungate was responsible for research activities in the business school, was coordinator of special management programs, organized the dean's businessmen's advisory committee, was faculty adviser for the college's "Journal of Business," was a member of the California Small Business Advisory Council.

A native of Omaha, Neb., Dr. Hungate served in the U.S. Armed Forces during World War II and is currently a major in the army intelligence reserve. He took a B.A. degree at the University of Washington with Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma honors. Following his graduation, he spent time as an agent of the FBI and in real estate.

Outagamie Seeks Squad Car Costs

Outagamie County Supervisors this morning in what can be considered as a test vote, gave the justice and enforcement courts committee permission to advertise for bids for county-owned squad cars by a 20-24 vote.

Presently county police own their own vehicles and are reimbursed for operation of the autos, including insurance.

The resolution does not authorize an immediate turnover to a policy of county-owned law enforcement vehicles, but merely authorizes the committee to get cost figures on such a program.

However, this morning's vote indicated that when the final question comes before the county board for a decision, the county may switch from its long-standing policy of private law enforcement vehicle ownership to county owned equipment.

Voice Opposition
Considerable opposition was voiced from supervisors who disputed whether there would be a savings with the change. Proponents for the change, however, said the present system does not allow a true cost picture for operating the vehicles since police officers use them for their personal affairs as well as official business.

In fact, one supervisor said, there have been instances when members of police officers' families have been involved in accidents when using squad cars. He said the county had picked up the cost of the $50 deductible collision insurance coverage.

Ex-Manager Found Guilty of $1 Million Forgery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sheldon Graff, 49, former business manager for television producer William T. Orr, was convicted Monday of forging Orr's signature to obtain bank loans worth nearly $1 million.

A six-man, six-woman jury had deliberated since Aug. 3.

Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler set Sept. 16 for sentencing and denied motions for bail.

Orr, vice president in charge of Warner Bros. television productions, testified Graff used Orr's stock to obtain loans and diverted them to his own use.

The jury, after an 11-week trial, found Graff guilty on four counts of forgery and 20 counts of grand theft.

Durkee Opened to 2-Way Traffic for Access to Businesses

To provide access to businesses on College Avenue's east end, Durkee Street will be opened to two-way traffic between Washington and College, City Planner-Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen said today.

Access has been limited to certain businesses in that area, and Durkee was opened, Rasmussen said, to permit motorists to reach the stores.

The change will be in effect for about two weeks until work on Drew Street is complete, the city official said.

Huber Law Prisoners May Work for County

Outagamie Board Rules Jail Inmates Can Work on Courthouse Maintenance Crew

Acting on the recommendation of the public property and insurance committee, the Outagamie County Board this morning decided that, in some instances, it would become an employer for Huber Law prisoners in the county jail.

By a vote of 50-1, the board approved a resolution authorizing Huber Law prisoners to be used on the courthouse maintenance staff at a rate of $1.50 an hour so that they could be covered by workmen's compensation laws.

No Insurance
The action was taken because Sheriff Calvin Spice refused to authorize the county officials to use Huber Law prisoners on various county jobs unless they were covered by insurance. All jail prisoners are the sheriff's responsibility and Spice said he would be liable to any injury incurred while they were working for the county.

Waged paid to Huber Law prisoners by the county would be used by them to pay their own board in the jail and to help support their families, Supv. Sylvester Esler (Appleton, 18), chairman of the public property and insurance committee, said.

The only "no" vote came from Supv. Walter Killian (Maple Creek) who objected to the county "paying guys who are in the jug who couldn't make $1.50 an hour anywhere else."

At-Large Election to Provide Board of Control for CESA

Educational Service Agency Considers Rotation as Alternative

The 17-member board of the Cooperative Educational Service Agency, (CESA) district No. 8, Tuesday night voted to elect its officers by Jack Meyer, Neenah, Appleton, chairman; Harland and Eugene Schellhout, Kimberly, Kirchner, Clintonville, vice-election as opposed to a rotation system at its annual convention at the Outagamie County courthouse annex.

The agency has replaced offices of county superintendents of schools.

Ten of the 11 members of the interim board were re-elected to the board of control with all officers of the board being re-elected. The one new member of the board is Mrs. George Mueller, Oshkosh, who succeeds Donald Timm, Hortonville.

Consider Systems
In discussing procedure to give proper representation on the control board, members considered an alphabetic rotation system proposed by Dr. Elvin Prather, Manawa.

Dr. Prather contended that if in supporting his proposal, the school building program being districts included in the agency's jurisdiction would have more than the individual.

The delegates, in a ballot vote, elected to stay with the at-large election because of the opportunity to elect an entire new board each year.

Re-elected as board of control officers were Mrs. Walter Heil, Eugene Schellhout, Kimberly; Harland, vice-chairman, and Milton Ratsch, chairman, and Milan Ratsch, treasurer. Kenneth Poppy, district co-ordinator, automatically is secretary for the delegation and the board of control.

Other Members

Other members of the board are Olin Dyer, Kaukauna; Eugene Schellhout, Kimberly; Dr. Elvin Prather, Manawa; Mrs. Milton Gaertner, Menasha; Fred Bernegger, New London; Mrs. George Mueller, Oshkosh; Mrs. George Wohlt, Weyauwega; and Mrs. Gordon Wentzel, Winneconne.

Eliminated from consideration were three years: the next four, two years, and the last four, one year. This would give at least Elmer Sido, Freedom, due to three new schools a chance to have board representation each year. who asked to be removed from the school building program being undertaken at Little Chute would require most of his time.

47-man board plan Kimberly, and Village of Black Creek, towns of Cicero-Seymour, towns of Main-Bovina and Village of Shiocton, and the towns of Deer Creek-Maple Creek and Village of Bear Creek (all one each).

No Longer Officers
Supervisors will be elected for two-year terms beginning next April and no longer will be officers of the municipalities they represent, but will be strictly county officers.

The county board adopted the amendment to following Kaukauna's ward lines as supervisory districts on a motion of Supv. Norman Austin (Town of Oneida). Appearing in behalf of the proposal were Kaukauna Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon, Ald. George Simon and Assemblyman William Rogers.

Kaukauna's objection to the original plan was that it didn't follow "common sense" and that it would confuse voters and raise election expenses.

Peotter objected to the plan because he said "the county board was wrong in recommending a 47-man board in the first place. Our original 43-man proposal was the fairest and most equitable."

He pointed out that under the Driver Uninjured as Car Hits Building

A woman motorist escaped injury Monday evening when her car went off the road in the 1800 block of N. Mason Street and struck an apartment building.

Mrs. Margaret A. Theisen, 40, 901 Parkway Blvd. told Appleton police she was rounding a curve, apparently hit the car accelerator instead of the brake. The car crossed the lawn and struck an apartment building at 1620 N. Mason St.

Antique Auction
Planned at Farm
By Poygan Group
TUSTIN—An auction of a homestead farm's antiques will be sponsored by the Lake Poygan Restoration Association at 1 p.m., Sunday. The club purchased the farm after the death of Ferdinand Ebbert at the age of ninety-three and will offer for sale some of the farm buildings and farm machinery as well as family possessions. A rain date for the auction has been set for Aug. 22. The farm is located off State 49 on County Trunk HH two miles east of West Bloomfield. Trap shoots later this month will be scheduled at the farm after the sale. In charge of setting up the trap shoot and rifle range are Pershing Cox and Dale Ludtke.

Firemen Fight Blaze
For Several Hours;
Loss Set at $15,000

Flames which could be seen for miles leveled a barn and destroyed machinery stored inside at the John Mueller farm on State 76 near U. S. 10 in the Town of Grand Chute about 10 p.m. Monday.

Grand Chute Volunteer Fire Department Chief Vincent Baum said 25 volunteers fought the flames for several hours and prevented the fire from spreading. He estimated damage to the barn and equipment at $15,000. Cause is unknown.

Mueller discovered the flames when they burst through the barn roof shortly before 10 p.m., then called fire fighters. Baum said the barn was engulfed in flames by the time firemen arrived and efforts were concentrated on saving nearby buildings and the farmhouse.

Several firemen stood by overnight while the charred hay smoldered, Baum said.

Rain Since Spring

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers splashed across scattered sections of the nation today after heavy rain and thundershowers in parts of the Northeast and Southeast.

The first measurable rainfall in many weeks was reported in sections of New York State. New York City, with a severe water shortage, got nearly one inch, largest amount since spring. More than two inches fell at Raybrook and Newburgh. The heavy rain upstate aided New York City's parched watersheds.

Heavy rain and severe lightning hit the Philadelphia area. Lightning set a fire at the Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital, forcing the evacuation of 100 patients and 60 nurses. A cupola on the hospital burned and fell three stories to the ground. Nearly two and a half inches of rain fell in parts of the city.

Successful Lyricist 'Fell' Into Business

Johnny Mercer Has Collaborated With
The Best Song Writers of This Generation

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD. (AP) — Johnny Mercer, who tried to be a singer and failed, tried to be an actor and failed. So I just naturally fell into lyric writing.

This is the deprecating analysis by Johnny Mercer of his latter-day career. It doesn't take into account that he may well be the most successful lyric writer practicing today.

Mellow-voiced Mercer is 55, but seems little changed from the days when he and Jack Teagarden intoned the blues as part of the Paul Whiteman organization.

Mercer reflected on his career at his beach home one morning. "I've been lucky to have been able to collaborate with some of the best song writers of my generation," he said. "I think I've worked with most of them, except Richard Rodgers."

Some of his partners and the fruit of their labors: Richard Whiting ("Too Marvelous for Words"); Jerome Kern ("Dearly Beloved"); Gordon Jenkins ("P.S. I Love You"); Hoagy Carmichael ("Lazy Bones"); Maltby Malneck ("Goody Goody"); Harold Arlen ("That Old Black Magic"); "Blues in the Night"; Harry Warren ("Jeepers Creepers") and more.

He has also collaborated with himself on such hits as "Dream," but he seldom writes music any more. "I don't play piano and it's hard to demonstrate songs when you don't," he explained.

Movie Titles

In recent years Mercer has been in heavy demand for title songs for movies. This stems from his lyricizing of David Rakson's "Laura."

"Producers call me all the time with offers to write songs for their picture titles," he said. "I turn most of them down. I think it's silly to write a song that doesn't mean anything. Just so you can plug the picture. I don't need the money."

Mercer's steady collaboration of late has been with the prolific Henry Mancini. The pair has reaped a golden harvest of money and Oscars. They won the Academy Award two years running for "Moon River" (from "Breakfast at Tiffany's") and the title tune of "Days of Wine and Roses."

How do they collaborate?

Work Method

"Actually, we don't collaborate at all," Mercer explained. "Hank writes the score first, and he selects the melodies that can be lyricized. I think it's better to work that way; then I can tune in on the melody. If I write the lyrics first, they're inclined to be more pedestrian, because I'm thinking of rhythms that have been used before."

Mercer also has written lyrics for movie musicals ("Seven Brides for Seven Brothers"), Broadway shows ("Li'l Abner") and in fact everything but rock 'n' roll. "I'm too old for that," he says.

Jack Swanson, Left, portrays Thomas Mendip, the glib-tongued cynic bent upon being hung, in Attic Theatre's arena production of "The Lady's Not for Burning." Being threatened by the former soldier in this scene from the Christopher Fry comedy are James C.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Aug. 10, the 222nd day of 1965. There are 143 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1776, the motto "E Pluribus Unum—One From Many"—was first suggested by a committee of Revolutionary War patriots. The group was made up of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

On this date
In 1790, the ship Columbia sailed into Boston harbor under command of Capt. Robert Gray. It was the first ship to carry the American flag around the world.

In 1821, Missouri was admitted to take Union as the 24th state.

In 1845, the United States Naval Academy was established at Annapolis, Md.

In 1874, Herbert Hoover, the 31st president, was born in the village of West Branch, Iowa.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson signed the food control bill and named Herbert Hoover as its administrator.

Ten years ago—South Korean President Syngman Rhee and the U.N. Command conferred on steps to protect truce inspection teams from South Koreans suspecting them of Communist ties.

Five years ago —President Dwight Eisenhower suggested the failure of nuclear test-ban talks at Geneva might bring a resumption of U.S. testing of nuclear weapons.

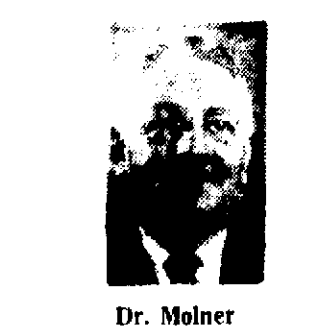

One year ago—U.S. Gen. Robert Kennedy announced that he had created an office of criminal justice within the Department of Justice to check on federal law enforcement.

To Your Good Health

Emotional Problem Can Follow Childbirth

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: A young relative recently had a baby and both she and the child almost died. She seemed to recover normally. However, she has such a strong attachment to the baby that she won't let anyone hold him. She feels that no one can take care of him properly except herself.

She resents having company, hates her mother-in-law beyond reason, and her husband, whom she loved dearly, seems to be having a conflict as a result.

Is this something that happens after a birth? Like "baby blues?" I know some mothers get them, but this seems to be the extreme opposite. — Mrs. C.M.

This certainly doesn't sound like post partum depression. But it is obvious that the young woman is suffering from a severe emotional problem.

For everybody's best interests, I would report to her doctor what is happening, with the likelihood that he in turn will favor consulting a psychiatrist.

Dear Dr. Molner: How can I get rid of blackheads? What causes them? I've tried squeezing them and they form into pimples. I wash my face twice a day and use a beauty lotion. I eat greasy food, fried potatoes, chicken, potato chips, etc. I know I need a properly balanced diet, but what else? I'm 15 and desperate. — B.T.

First, correct one factor you know is wrong—your diet—before you start hunting for "medication."

Second, find out what a blackhead really is. To do this, send me in care of the Post-Crescent a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in coin for my booklet, "Acne, the Teen-Age Problem." It will tell you what blackheads are, and how to improve your complexion.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 12 years old. My mother won't let me have cola drinks because she thinks they contain caffeine which is harmful to children?—Steve N.

Yes, pal, cola drinks do contain caffeine, but I don't know of anything else in them that is "harmful." I won't even say that caffeine necessarily is harmful. Sometimes it is: sometimes not.

Young fellows like you are naturally full of energy. You don't need anything to pep you up—nothing, that is, except plenty of wholesome food and sleep. In fact, your young energy wears us old folks out.

Older people, even real old ones like me, and I'm past 50, don't have your bounce. We can use a stirrer-upper to keep us going. Caffeine is the commonest (safe stimulant (or stirrer-upper)) that has been found. That's why we like our coffee, or tea, which contain caffeine, or our cola drinks, which also contain caffeine.

I'm with your mother, Steve. You have youth, which gives you what it takes to buzz. Give your age your coffee, and you'll stay awake too long, and not go to sleep to build up your natural, automatic energy.

Make a deal with your mother: One cola on occasion won't hurt you. But a boy of your age who drinks several a day will get too wound up and wear out too soon. Wait until you are older before you rely on the lift you get from caffeine.

Note to B.M.: Yes, emphysema is a dangerous disease, but it is not contagious.

Children, Light Bulbs To Heat New School

DETROIT (AP) — A new high school in suburban Grosse Pointe has a heating system which uses the heat generated by children and light bulbs.

The self-contained unit collects and stores the heat emitted by human beings and electric lights and heats the building at about two-thirds the normal cost, according to architect K.L. Weiland of Ann Arbor. He said hot air is drawn off and stored in tanks. A compressor later circulate it.

Machine May Replace 14 Cleaning Women

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The State of Rhode Island has acquired a $2,000 machine that may eventually replace 14 cleaning women. The machine will permit two persons to scrub years old. My mother won't let me have cola drinks because she thinks they contain caffeine which is harmful to children?—Steve N.

Yes, pal, cola drinks do contain caffeine, but I don't know of anything else in them that is "harmful." I won't even say that caffeine necessarily is harmful. Sometimes it is: sometimes not.

Young fellows like you are naturally full of energy. You don't need anything to pep you up—nothing, that is, except plenty of wholesome food and sleep. In fact, your young energy wears us old folks out.

Older people, even real old ones like me, and I'm past 50, don't have your bounce. We can use a stirrer-upper to keep us going. Caffeine is the commonest (safe stimulant (or stirrer-upper)) that has been found. That's why we like our coffee, or tea, which contain caffeine, or our cola drinks, which also contain caffeine.

I'm with your mother, Steve. You have youth, which gives you what it takes to buzz. Give your age your coffee, and you'll stay awake too long, and not go to sleep to build up your natural, automatic energy.

Make a deal with your mother: One cola on occasion won't hurt you. But a boy of your age who drinks several a day will get too wound up and wear out too soon. Wait until you are older before you rely on the lift you get from caffeine.

Fragile Label Feared Becoming Obsolete

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Kalamazoo College sophomore fears the familiar phrase "Fragile—Handle With Care" is becoming too familiar and may even be obsolete.

Charles Hawes, who studied a group of package handlers at a department store, suggested a picture of the contents replace the label.

Record Run Reported For Alaska Red Salmon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A record run of red salmon in Bristol Bay, Alaska, this year has been reported by the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

Early indications are that 55 million to 60 million sockeye salmon entered the bay, of which about 25 million were caught.

Raise Rates on Farm
MADISON (AP) — Fire insurance rates for many farm buildings went up Monday.
Slate Insurance Commissioner Charles Manson said new rates, effective today, will probably raise the total premiums paid to firms which are members of the Fire Insurance Rating Bureau by about $350,000.
Manson said the revised rates reflected an increase in losses in fires involving farm buildings over the last five years.

Charley Taylor Sidelined With Ankle Fracture

Warfield, Elkins
Also on Pros'
Hospital List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The two most spectacular rookies in the National Football League last year and one of this year's top American Football League prospects share first place on the hospital list today after the pros' first round of pre-season contact.

The Washington Redskins learned Monday that halfback Charley Taylor, NFL rookie of the year in 1964, may be sidelined for a month with an ankle fracture.

Meanwhile, Paul Warfield, pass-catching star of the NFL champion Cleveland Browns, was operated on for a shattered collarbone in Cleveland and Larry Elkins, touted rookie flanker for the AFL Houston Oilers, underwent knee surgery in Houston.

Cracks Ankle
Taylor cracked his right ankle during the Redskins' 37-0 exhibition victory over Philadelphia last Saturday. Warfield was injured in last Friday night's game against the College All-Stars.

Elkins, an All-America end at Baylor last season, ripped the cartilage in his knee the second time he handled the ball in the
New York Jets Saturday night.

The Redskins hope Taylor mends in time for their Sept. 19 season opener against the Browns. Warfield and Elkins, however, are expected to be out for two months.

"It's tough to have any injury, especially to Taylor," Washington Coach Bill McPeak said Monday. "But, looking objec-tively, if it had to happen, it's better now than later."

Taylor, from Arizona State University, was the NFL's No. 6 ground-gainer and No. 8 pass receiver in his rookie season, netting 755 yards rushing and grabbing 53 passes for 805 yards.

Coaches in other AFL and NFL camps welcomed late-arriving rookies who played in the All-Star game at Chicago, made squad cuts and prepared for this weekend's heavy exhibition schedule.

Colts Sign Berry To '65 Contract

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) —
The Baltimore Colts signed veteran end Raymond Berry to a 1965 contract Monday and cut four players from the training roster.

Berry has caught 506 passes during his 10-year pro career, a National Football League record. He was a future 20th draft choice in 1954.

The Colts dropped defensive end John Paglio of Syracuse and fullback Ray Jackson of Texas.
Offensive guard Ted Tork of Virginia, and offensive tackle
Jim Gray of Benedict College,
Orleans including John Orsino
and Boog Powell.

At Waupaca High

WAUPACA—Bill Hopkins, of Appleton, has been hired by Waupaca high school to serve as assistant coach in football, head basketball coach and a mathematics teacher.

A coaching vacancy was created when head coach Richard Weed resigned to work with a local industry. Jim Mohr, assistant football coach, was promoted to the head football coaching post and Duncan Campbell, freshman coach, will be first assistant in football.

Hopkins, a 7-letter winner in collegiate athletics, graduated from Hanover College, Hanover, Ind.

Head coach Mohr will have a nucleus of 15 lettermen returning this year for practice which starts next Monday.

Elmira Outscores Baltimore in 5

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — The Eastern League's Elmira Pioneers handed their parent club, the Baltimore Orioles of the American League, a 2-1 setback
Monday night in an exhibition game here, curtailed to five innings, by a pre-game rain.

Ed Barnowski, pitching for Elmira, stuck out six of the
Jim Gray of Benedict College,
Orleans including John Orsino
and Boog Powell.

71, 72 and 73. Spangenberg fired a 71 and 73, as did Elmer Selig, who hit an ace in his 71. Other low scorers for the par 72 layout were Tom Hadley, 70;
Tom Goodrich, 71; Monty Luka,
75; Bill Daniel Jr. and G. W.
Llewellyn, both 76s; Dr. E.
Shelley, 77, and Ralph Sell Jr., 78 and 79.

Tom Zeuthen, who had won the title four straight times, was dethroned by Peterson, 3 and 2, in the semis. Manier had edged Roy Rhyner, 1 up, in the semi-finals. Peterson's previous titles came in '52, '56 and '58.

Other low scorers at North Shore were Wayne Williams and Hank Tolette, with 76s.

Bob Barlament opened defense of his Riverview Country club golf championship by defeating Zinn Garrett, 3 and 2.
He will next meet Vince Jones.
In other title flight matches,

Jack Close beat Jerry Schomisch, 4 and 3; and Harry Brown, won, 2 up, over Neil McLeod.

Leading the weekend scoring were Barlament, with a 70;
Brown, with 77 and 9; and Close, with 78.

Seven matches were played in "A" Flight. Bud Stach and John Carpenter scored 19th-hole victories over "Frosty" Sprowl and Bernie Heseltun, respectively.
Lee Barlament edged Ed Wood,
1 up. Paul Tepper and John Gall scored 2-up wins over Art Miller and Ray Wuerger, respectively.

Authors of 3 and 2 wins were John Landis and Vern Thor-son—over Larry Brazner and Ray Joseph, respectively.

Dennis Babb fired a 67 (34-33) and 71 at Reid Municipal over the weekend. Other low scorers included Larry Booth, 73; Don

Van Brocklin's 1965 Training Camp Bubbles Over With Confidence

Vikings Appear Ready to Move for Division Crown

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings' lakeside retreat bubbles with optimism. The Dutchman, called Norm Van Brocklin, talks of winning. So do Fran Tarkenton, Tommy Mason, Bill Brown and the others.

In five short years this franchise, born of expansion, has reached the stage of a bonafide contender for the Western Conference championship in the National Football League. Judicious draft choices, wise trades and the painstaking organization of head coach Van Brocklin are about ready to pay off.

"We've come to camp with the idea we're going to have our best year," said the Dutchman at Bemidji State College.

Led in Passing

The record is clear for all to see: Seventh in 1961, sixth in 1962, fourth-place tie in 1963 and second-place tie in 1964. From a rag tag band of castoffs, who won only three games and gave up 407 points in '61, Van Brocklin has moulded a team that led the NFL in passing, was second in rushing and fourth in scoring last fall.

Van Brocklin's Vikings run the ball more often than they throw, following the pattern of Green Bay. Last year they ran 519 plays and passed 326 times.

"Tommy Mason and Bill Brown are as good as you could want for runners," said the Dutchman. "We need somebody behind Mason and hope Phil King can do the job. We're also figuring on Lance Rentzel (rookie from Oklahoma) as a running back."

"Our receivers are going to be great. Paul Flatley is one of the best in the league at split end and Hal Bedsole at tight end is the fastest end we have. He has the right attitude now."

"We got Red Phillips from Los Angeles, an all-pro player in the deal for Jack Snow, and we expect Red to pick up where he left off before he was sidelined with infected right knee. We also have Tom Hall, Bob Lacey and others."

"Nick Tingelhoff finally got recognition as an all-league center last year. Alderman is a great tackle and Larry Bowie has come on strong at guard. The rest of the offensive line probably will be Eric Linden at right tackle and Mill Sunde or Ken Byers at guard, unless some of the rookies come on fast."

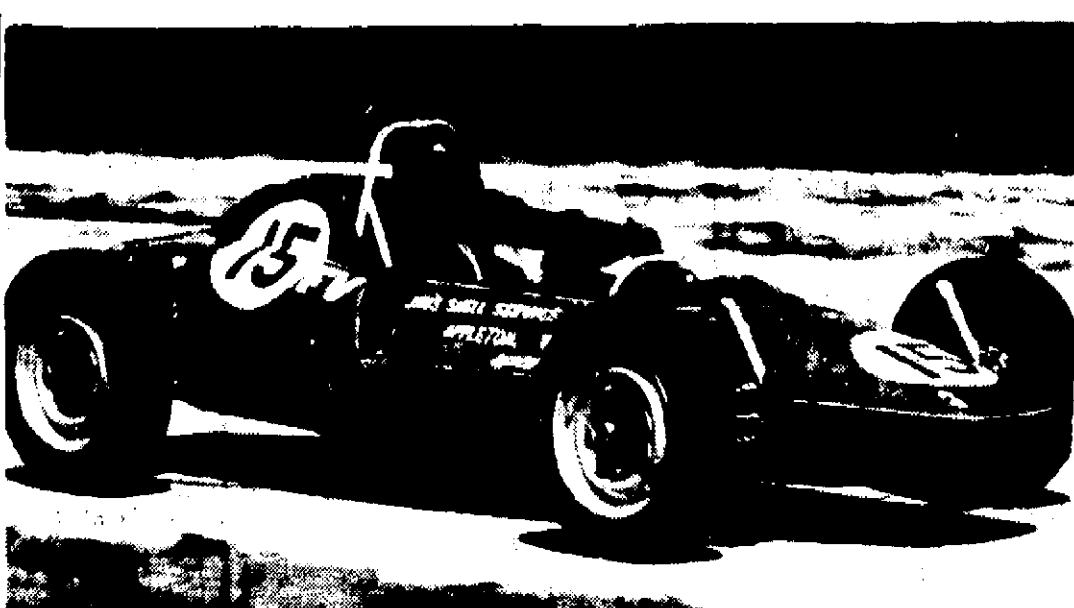

Best Pass Rusher

Van Brocklin rates Jim Marshall, his defensive right end, as the best pass rusher in the league, and thinks Carl Eller, 6-foot-6, 255-pound second year from Minnesota, can be just as good. Jim Prestel and Paul Dickson are the regular tackles, but Gary Larsen, acquired from the Rams, may replace one.

Roy Winston, Hawkins and Bill Jobko are the linebackers, reading from left to right. Lee Callander, George Rose and Ed Sharneckman will man the corners. The chief weakness, if any, is safety. Karl Kassulke and Larry Vargo did a good job last year but rookie Jeff Jordan of Tulsa may edge one.

Van Brocklin expects to carry three quarterbacks with Ron VanderKelen and rookie Bob Berry of Oregon behind Tarkenton. Berry has been impressive in camp.

Bobby Walden developed into the league's top punter as a rookie in 1964. Fred Cox will handle the place kicking again.

Courtney Car Triumphs at Lyndale Race

An Appleton-owned car, driven by Nashotah's Dick Drexler, won Race 5 for Formula V cars in the National sports car races at Lyndale Farms, Pewaukee, Sunday.

Appleton's Brunhilde Courtney entered the winning car, a Beach Formula V.

Jim Courtney is owner and chief mechanic. During the race, Drexler passed the first-place Formula Junior B car driven by Augie Pabst. Drexler also won in the GP category — the only driver to win twice.

Walt Biddle, of Neenah and Fond du Lac, took second place in the G class of the H and G production and H modified races. He is now third in the national point standings for the central division.

Hofa Park and Garsow Blank League Foes

Hodkiewicz Hurls 2 Hitter; McDermid Allows 6 Safeties

Two shutouts were recorded in an abbreviated Dairyland Baseball League schedule Sunday as rain played havoc with most games.

Gary Hodkiewicz pitched a 2-hitter as Garsow stopped Shioc-ton, 9-0, and Dick McDermid hurled a 6-hitter as Hofa Park handed Bonduel a 2-0 setback.

Both Shioc-ton hits were singles and came in the first and third innings. Hodkiewicz was backed on the mound by home runs off the bats of Ron John and Bill Danforth, both off losing pitcher Merson for Shioc-ton.

Dick McDermid fanned 12 batters and walked six for Hofa Park, and his brother Jerry sparked the hitting attack with three for four including a pair of doubles. Pat Wudtke had two singles in four trips for Bonduel.

Leon Drage was the starter and loser for Bonduel.

Bonduel 000 000 00 — 0 6
Hofa Park 010 000 01x — 2 9

Winner—Dick McDermid.
Loser—Leon Drage.

Exclusive of makeup games, the schedule for this week is:

Saturday—Black Creek (5-1) at Seymour (5-0).

Sunday—Cecil (4-1) at Bonduel (4-3); Navarino (1-5) at Nichols (0-6); Lanstad (1-4) at Hofa Park (4-3); Garsow (6-1) at Freedom (4-0), and Shioc-ton (2-5) at Oneida (0-5).

Rams Release Lou Cordileone

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams held a light workout in 100-degree heat Monday, but several regulars were slowed by injury.

Fullback Ben Wilson has a pair of bad knees, flanker Tommy McDonald and running back Dick Bass have charley horses and halfback Terry Baker is nursing a twisted knee.

Defensive end Lamar Lundy is sidelined with arthritis, defensive back Aaron Martin has a bad shoulder, and split end Bucky Pope has several stitches over his right eye.

Veteran linebacker Lou Cordileone, who has played for four National Football league teams in his career, was released.

Braves Face Cardinals in 3-Game Set

Cloninger Slated To Duel Gibson In Tonight's Tilt

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee will throw its top three hurlers against St. Louis in the windup of a home stand which so far has left the pennant potential of the Braves' mound corps in doubt.

Tony Cloninger, the Braves' top winner at 15-8, was nominated to face Cardinal ace, Bob Gibson, 14-8, in the series opener tonight.

Ken Johnson, 12-6, will get the call Wednesday night with Wade Blasingame, 14 - 8, expected to work Thursday afternoon.

But the man whom manager Bobby Bragan tapped as the key to the Braves' pitching prognosis is still another hurler. Denny Lemaster, limping along with a 4-9 record after winning 17 games last year.

"His arm was stiff all spring and then turned sore," Bragan recounted. "We rested him for five weeks, hoping he would come around. On the basis of his recent performances, we think he has."

Bragan said "it would be a lot easier" to win the flag with a dependable fourth starter.

don't particularly care who it is," he said. "If Denny gets untracked, he could do it. But it'll take him or somebody else to take the bull by the horns."

The Braves, while in third place only two games back of Los Angeles, one game behind San Francisco and one percentage point ahead of Cincinnati, need badly to win the series with St. Louis.

Milwaukee is just 7-5 for the current home series while Los Angeles opens at home tonight against the lowly Mets. The Dodgers have a fat 9 - 3 mark against the Mets this year.

Suit Against NL Assigned to Judge Roller

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The state's suit against the National League and its members attacking baseball's reserve clause and the powers given to the Baseball Commissioner, has been assigned to Circuit Judge Elmer Roller.

Atty. Gen. Bronson La Folle began the suit last week under the state anti-trust laws, asking that the Braves be restrained from playing home games anywhere except Milwaukee County Stadium until a new franchise is granted Milwaukee or the Braves franchise is sold to a local group.

No date was set for the hearing.

Braves to Lose $1,500,000 in '65 Says Bartholomay

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves have ceased to exist in any state except Wisconsin.

Stockholders of the National League baseball team met in Atlanta Monday and voted to change the team's name to the Atlanta Braves Inc. This action was taken since the team plans to move to Atlanta for the 1966 season.

However, the club cannot play in Wisconsin under the name of Atlanta Braves Inc., because attorney Dominic Frinzi recently filed a corporation under that name with the Wisconsin Secretary of State to block such a move.

But Braves' Board Chairman William Bartholomay said that the team is a Delaware corporation and can use that name in all states except Wisconsin.

Bartholomay also told the stockholders that the team will lose at least $1.5 million in Milwaukee this year because of an unofficial fan boycott.

"In spite of these actions, the Braves' organization is dedicated to winning the National League pennant so that Atlanta will begin its first major league season with a championship team," Bartholomay said.

Government Casualties 'Moderate'

Vietnamese Force Kills 219 Guerrillas in Duc Co Battle

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A large government force attempting to relieve the besieged special forces camp at Duc Co has killed 219 Viet Cong in a "battle of sizable proportions" that is continuing, a U.S. spokesman reported today.

Government casualties — including American dead and wounded — are "moderate," the spokesman said, but added, "I describe them as moderate only because of the large number of troops involved."

A U.S. Air Force F100 was shot down Monday near Duc Co. The pilot parachuted into territory held by the Viet Cong and efforts by planes and helicopters to rescue him were unavailing.

F100 Lost

Another plane, a U.S. Air Force F105, was lost today in the continuing air strikes over North Viet Nam, but the pilot was recovered, the spokesman said. He reported the Thunderchief was shot from a seven-plane formation that knocked out one span of the Vin Tuy bridge, 90 miles northwest of Hanoi.

The Duc Co battle seemed to be shaping up as the most sizable engagement since American and Vietnamese forces beat back an attempt by a reinforced Viet Cong regiment in early June to drive from the hills to the South China Sea in the area of Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said the Viet Cong casualties had been confirmed by body count.

Viet Cong Weapons

He reported two government tanks had been knocked out but said the government force had captured 74 Viet Cong weapons. The government force was battling its way westward along Route 19, the east-west highway through the central highlands, in an attempt to reach the camp five miles from the Cambodian border.

Its garrison, now numbering 12 U.S. advisers and about 150 South Vietnamese and mountain tribesmen, has been under siege for 67 days. The Communists attack the camp nightly with mortars and small arms.

Since early Monday, Viet Cong forces have been hitting the relief force systematically as it tried to cover the 30 miles between Pleiku, capital of the 2nd corps area, and Duc Co.

Account of Action

The U.S. spokesman gave this account of the action:

Viet Cong snipers opened up on the large road force early Monday. By afternoon the lead elements were heavily engaged.

Just before dusk the Viet Cong hit another part of the column. A force estimated at about 150 guerrillas directed heavy fire from mortars and recoilless rifles at the trucks, tanks and armored personnel carriers.

Two tanks were knocked out and one armored personnel carrier was destroyed along with a truck and a 105mm howitzer.

Late Monday afternoon a U.S. forward air controller reported

he had spotted a Viet Cong battalion. The Air Force flew 50 sorties in the area and kept up air strikes today. But sniper fire continued against the column.

Efforts were being made to move out the dead and wounded.

Pilot Drowned

The spokesman said rescue parties have been unable to find a U.S. Air Force pilot who parachuted from his F100 Super Sabre after it was hit by ground fire Monday night about six miles east of Duc Co. Rescuers found his parachute but intense enemy fire prevented further search. The aircraft had been supporting the government effort to break the siege.

A mile south of the Da Nang Air Base, Viet Cong mortar crews moved into a village part-

By ED SHEARER

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The death count from an explosion and fire in a Titan 2 missile launching site rose to 53 today with the discovery of six more bodies on lower levels of the underground silo.

"It is very possible this is the final count," said Capt. Douglas Wood, Air Force public information officer at the site.

Searchers planned to pump several feet of water out of the bottom of the concrete tube holding the missile before giving up the search.

The exact number of civilian workmen in the missile complex at the time of the blast and fire Monday was uncertain.

Two workmen scrambled out when the fire erupted and escaped without serious injury.

Victims Asphyxiated

The Air Force said all the victims apparently asphyxiated when the blast and fire sealed off their means of escape and filled the complex with smoke. The Air Force originally said it believed the explosion and fire trapped 48 men in the silo. Later, another Air Force spokesman said the figure should be less definite — "about 50."

Rescue teams wearing asbestos suits and gas masks, and using special gear to breathe in the smoke-clogged silo, worked

Body of Girl, 10, Found in Pickerel Lake

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The body of a Wausau girl, object of an extensive search in the northern Wisconsin woods, was found Monday in an Oneida County lake.

The bodies of three other weekend drowning victims were also recovered in northern Wisconsin and from the Mississippi River.

The 10-year-old girl, Paulette Langlois, had strayed from the Buffalo Lake campgrounds in the American Legion State Forest east of Woodruff where her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Langlois, were on a weekend outing.

She was found drowned in Pickerel Lake less than a mile from the campgrounds. More than 40 volunteers had searched the heavily wooded area Sunday and Monday.

Another child, Robert Brave Jr., 3, Little Rock, Ark., drowned Sunday in Bass Lake near Land O'Lakes in adjacent Vilas County.

The bodies of Merrill Ludovissy, 39, and his sister - in - law, Mrs. Ivanell Ludovissy, 36, both of North Buena Vista, Iowa, were recovered from the Mississippi River Monday near Cassville.

They drowned Sunday when a pleasure boat struck an object in the river and sank. A passing rowboat rescued six other persons.

260 Arrested in Demonstrations Over Issue of U. S. Involvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and his top aides are bearing down hard in briefings, public statements and interviews on their view that the bulk of Congress and the nation back U.S. policies in the Viet Nam war.

Johnson, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara all spoke out along this line Monday. The day in Washington was also marked by the arrest of 260 persons in noisy demonstrations and counterdemonstrations swirling around the issue of U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Meets Press

Johnson unexpectedly met with the White House press between two extensive briefing sessions, each for half the Senate. He said to the newsmen, referring to what he called would-be hopeful enemies, "I don't want any of them to say, because somebody makes a speech that questions this or that there is any substantial division in our country. And, in my judgment, there is no substantial division in the Congress."

He added: "We're there to stay. We're going to do what we need to do to resist aggression. When aggression ceases, resistance ceases."

Must Debate

Rusk, interviewed along with McNamara on a CBS television program Monday night, remarked that "it is quite true that Hanoi lives on expressions of dissent or disagreement here within our own society."

Sinatra Yacht Employe Feared Dead; 3 Saved

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (AP) — A small boat from Frank Sinatra's chartered launch overturned early today off Martha's Vineyard Island with the possible loss of one life.

The Coast Guard said Robert Goldfarb, 23, disappeared when the boat capsized near the anchored yacht Southern Breeze about 4 a.m.

Goldfarb was not further identified by the Coast Guard but local authorities said they believe he is a member of the yacht's crew, one of 29 persons aboard.

Two girls who were with Goldfarb swam to the yacht and were hauled aboard.

The girls were not identified. Official said the girls were not members of Sinatra's party.

Vacationers with the 49-year-old Sinatra include 19-year-old actress Mia Farrow, actress Claudette Colbert, Rosalind Russell and the husbands of the latter two.

Picked Off of Skiff

Cuban Seaman Admits He Went On Murder Rampage Aboard Ship

By DOUG BAILEY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban seaman picked off a skiff in the Gulf Stream admitted today that he went on a murder rampage on the banana boat Seven Seas, a Coast Guard spokesman said today.

"As I understand it, he admitted doing them all except the cook," Cmdr. W. C. Wahl of the Key West Coast Guard base told the Associated Press.

"The last thing he said was that he sent the cook, Gerald Davidson down to the engine room for something. We don't know where the cook is."

Wahl said Ramirez told interrogators that he left the Seven Seas alone in the skiff.

14 Foot Skiff

Ramirez was taken aboard a merchant vessel which located the 14-foot skiff in the Gulf Stream 60 miles south of Miami.

Senate Unit OKs Fortas, Marshall Appointments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved today President Johnson's nominations of Abe Fortas to be a Supreme Court justice and Thurgood Marshall to be solicitor general.

The committee also recommended Senate confirmation of Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., to be a U.S. District Court judge in Arkansas.

Sens. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and John L. McClellan, D-Ark., both of whom left the closed committee meeting early, said Fortas was approved without any dissenting votes.

They told newsmen, however, that some votes were cast against approval of Marshall's nomination to succeed former Harvard Law School Prof. Archibald Cox as solicitor general.

Yanks Fire Warning Shots at Vietnamese Crowd, Wounding 3

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army guards fired warning shots into the ground to halt about 150 Vietnamese civilians advancing on a garbage dump Monday near Qui Nhon and a man and two boys were wounded by ricocheting bullets.

A U.S. spokesman, in announcing the incident today, said he did not know why the crowd was advancing.

A desire of some Vietnamese to cull American garbage even before dumping led to a couple of earlier clashes at Da Nang, north of Qui Nhon.

He was transferred to a Coast Guard patrol boat which took him to Miami Beach, then was hustled away by U.S. Immigration Service agents.

A tight lid of secrecy was clamped here on the interrogation of Ramirez.

Another Coast Guard spokesman said Ramirez told the investigators that he shot and killed five of the crewmen aboard the 166-foot vessel, then fled the death ship when her engines went dead as she churned toward his Cuban homeland.

Known Survivors

The only known survivors of the murder spree was Elvin Burywise, 17, who hid in terror for 18 hours in a dark, smelly chain locker so small he could not stand erect.

"There is no word on the motive" for the killings, Wahl said. When silence fell over the ship after the bursts of gunfire, Burywise said, he could tell from his place of refuge that her

Nixon Urges Hike In Viet Nam Attacks

Asks Food, Medicine Gifts for North Vietnamese After War Ends

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said today the United States must step up attacks on North Viet Nam. He suggested Americans start contributing food, medicine and clothing to help the North Vietnamese people recover "when peace finally comes."

"We must continue to step up our air and sea attacks on North Viet Nam until the Communist leaders stop their aggression against South Viet Nam," Nixon said in a speech prepared for a program marking the 91st birthday anniversary of the late President Herbert Hoover.

Aid People

"But completely consistent with that policy would be the establishment now of an American committee to aid the people of North Viet Nam," said the former vice president, a Republican.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, under whom Nixon served for eight years, was to introduce Nixon.

It was here three years ago that Hoover gave his last major address, in which he called for a "council of free nations" to act when the United Nations "fails to act or is prevented from taking action" to preserve world peace.

Nixon said his proposal should not be a government-to-government program, "which would simply strengthen the domination of the Communist government of North Viet Nam over the people of that unhappy country."

"The American people throughout contributions to such a committee would send to the people of North Viet Nam food, medicine, clothing and other materials which would help them recover from the devastating destruction of war," Nixon said.

course was changed southward toward Cuba, but the fuel in her main tanks apparently ran out two hours later.

The Coast Guard speculated that whoever was operating the ship did not know how to switch to auxiliary tanks.

When the Seven Seas was towed into Key West, Fla., Monday by a Coast Guard cutter, the bodies of three crewmen were found, one on deck and two in their blood-stained bunks below.

Dead Not Identified

The Coast Guard refused to identify the dead, but Mrs. Raul Garcia, wife of the ship's owner, said they were Aldrich Hinds, the first mate; chief engineer Jose Abad; and Antonio Forner, a seaman.

Burywise said he also saw Capt. Rogelio Diaz lying dead in a pool of blood on the bridge, but the Coast Guard said a trail of blood leading to the port rail indicated that Diaz was thrown overboard.

The other crew member besides the missing cook, was Franco Salomon, the second engineer.

Big Question

What happened to the cook, the Coast Guard's spokesman said, "is the big question."

Burywise, who emerged from his hiding place when the vessel was boarded by a Coast Guard party Sunday, said he

Differences Hinge on Commerce With Indonesia, Possible Aggression by It

BY TONY ESCODA

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia and Singapore appeared ready today to work in harmony if they can reconcile Singapore's desire for trade with Indonesia and Malaysia's fears of Indonesian aggression.

Statements issued by leaders of the two governments following Singapore's sudden withdrawal from the federation stressed coexistence and cooperation.

"We now separate on terms of friendship," said Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman. He underscored points in the separation agreement calling for joint action in economic and defense matters.

Singapore Premier Lee Kuan Yew accused Rahman of forcing the break, but he too stressed pen," said Rahman. "We would take action."

Indonesia was one of Singapore's chief trading partners until Indonesian President Sukarno launched his military campaign to crush Malaysia.

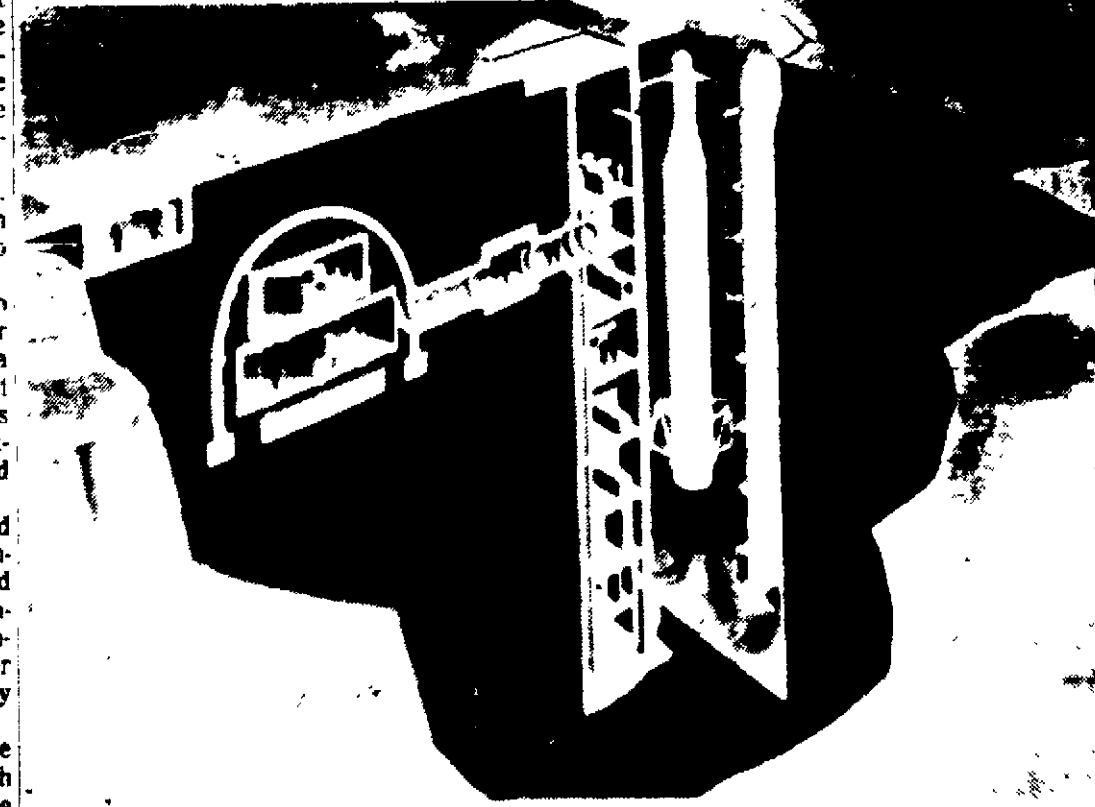

The political - racial differences which led to the break also remained evident.

"Singapore will never rejoin Malaysia in my lifetime," Lee told newsmen.

Lee, spokesman for Singapore's predominantly Chinese population, claimed the Malay-dominated government in Kuala Lumpur was trying to perpetuate Malay supremacy in Malaysia. Ultrarationalist Malays feared he would unite his forces with the large Chinese population on the Malaysian mainland and get control of the government.

Lee said Rahman told him separation was the only alternative.

Fremont Will Protest Control Of White Bass

C of C Circulates Petition, Plans Caravan to Hearing

FREMONT — Petitions against the control of white bass by the Wisconsin Conservation Department are being distributed to local business places by the members of the Fremont Chamber of Commerce.

Each of the 40 petitions has spaces for 20 names. They are being prepared by Wesley Warnke, chamber of commerce secretary, and state: "We the undersigned are positively against any form of white bass control on Lake Winnebago or its associated waters."

A caravan of local representatives will form at the Bauer Store in the village at 6:30 p.m. Thursday evening to attend the hearing at Oshkosh. Petitions will be presented to Wisconsin Conservation Department authorities at the hearing.

Thursday's hearing supplants the regular C of C meeting. The August meeting will be rescheduled to complete plans for the Farm Day Festival to be held here this month.

King Veterans Hospital Receives Accreditation

American Hospital Association Cites Grand Army Home After Inspection

WAUPACA—The Grand Army Home for Veterans at King, three miles west of here, recently received accreditation of its facilities by the American Hospital Association.

Arlin Barden, acting commandant during John Drayna's absence, said the accreditation came after an intensive inspection by the association requested by the veteran's home in December 1964.

Although the actual accreditation was awarded in February, the veterans hospital received official notice just last month, Barden said.

Continued Progress

John R. Moses, Madison, Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, said the accreditation marks the continued progress in efforts to improve state service to veterans.

Requirements for the approved rating include adequate medical and dental care; clinical laboratory and diagnostic radiology services; professional nursing and dietetic service; professional social worker counseling; adequate recreational opportunities, and provisions for meeting the spiritual needs of the members, Moses said.

The King home now has 516 disabled veterans or disabled veteran's wives, widows or mothers. More than 250 of the members are classed as requiring moderate or maximum nursing care, Moses explained. Included in the Grand Army Home facilities are 96 hospital beds with 203 beds for members needing daily medical care in the infirmary.

Outagamie Youths Are Attending Easter Seal Camp Wawbeek

Camping may sound like something only the kids do to take up summertime slack. The "kids" who are spending the current two weeks at Camp Wawbeek, the Land of the Easter Seal, near Wisconsin Dells are between 21 and 45 years of age.

Many have come to spend two weeks for many years because it is the best two weeks of any year to them. They find new friends and renew old friendships while they enjoy the many facilities Wawbeek offers. Easter Seals finance Wawbeek, and it continues to grow with the idea that recreation is a very important part of developing the abilities of the handicapped.

Campers from Outagamie County attending the present session at Camp Wawbeek are The Neal Chudacoff, 230 East Glen-R. Casey, 21, route 1, Manawa, Wacker auto collided with a car date, Appleton; Jimmy French, pleaded guilty of reckless driving by Bridget Howlett, 411 West Winnebago, Appleton; ing and was fined $100 and costs route 2, Fremont. He attempted Lucille Meulemans, route 2, when he appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen, was turning left, police said.

New London Girl Wins Grand Prize

It has been announced that Judy Leschke, 13, 1601 Smith St., New London, is the winner of a national grand prize in the Young Hobby Club contest published in the Post-Crescent July 28.

Her prize is the 12-volume Encyclopedia Britannica "Great Books for Children." Judy is also winner of a local prize in the same contest.

Local prize-winning entries from all the cities where the Hobby Club column is published are judged on neatness and originality to determine national winners. Five national prizes are awarded in each contest.

Other winners of "Great Books for Children" are from Augusta, Ga.; Freedom, Pa.; West DePerre, and St. Louis, Mich.

Appleton area winners of local prizes in the July 28 contest are Mary Ann Zuleger, route 4; Appleton; Mary Ann Klotz, route 2; Hilbert; Lynda Wittman, route 3, Kaukauna, and Bonnie Peters, route 1, Kaukauna.

All winners will receive their prizes by mail within a short time.

Navarino Soo Line Depot Will Be Razed

MADISON—The Soo Line railroad Co. depot at Navarino, on the line between Appleton and Shawano, will become a memory soon. The company has been authorized by the public Service Commission to remove the depot, which has not been used by the public for some time. The proposal was not opposed at a public hearing, purchased by the city, several years before the vacation of the site for the site of a new high school.

$1.4 Million Building

NEW LONDON—Work on the $1.4 million senior high school has been the cause of further delays. Excavation of about 40,000 yards of soil had been the portion of the project most affected by rain. Three contractors are working on the 104,000-square-foot building that will have an 800-student capacity.

At-Large Election to Provide Board of Control for CESA

Street Belongs To New London, Board Decides

Resolution to Vacate Unit for High School Site Never Recorded

NEW LONDON—Washington Street is city property, the board of education concluded after the presentation of a letter from Atty. S. W. Krostue at a meeting Monday night.

Krostue, city attorney and school district legal adviser, in his letter stated the city council resolution giving 708 feet of the street to the school district was passed, but was never recorded with the register of deeds. The city could rescind the motion, he advised the board in a letter.

Supt. H. James Ramsdell was asked to write to the city clerk asking that the city council rescind the motion on the street.

Brought Up Before The council discussed the matter several months ago during a committee meeting when the school board first brought the matter up.

Aldermanic opinions were varied on who owned the street. A portion of the resolution states "In the event that the property abutting the portion of Washington Street should cease to be used for school purposes then the vacation becomes void and the street reverts back to the city."

The street was originally scheduled as part of the new school site. The $1.4 million high school is being constructed to the south of the street facing it.

Street Vacated '63 The street was vacated Feb. 5, 1963, by a city resolution and a public hearing. City use of the road as the main entrance to the 120-acre Hatten Park has continued.

The school district owns property on both sides of the street.

The 1963 resolution was passed unanimously but the transfer of property was never registered. Neither the school or city records shows the reason for this.

Change Of Sites One possible reason is a site for the new school had not been chosen at the time. The Werner-Allen site on which the building is being constructed was approved after vacating of the street.

However, the school district had abandoned the Abraham Heights site for school construction by that time. A 30-acre parcel between Pershing Road and Jennings Street was then driven by Gerald L. Wagner being considered by the board. The 27 acres on which the south school is being built was purchased by the city, several years before the vacation of the site for the site of a new high school.

Educational Service Agency Considers Rotation as Alternative

The 17-member board of the cause of the alphabetic place-Cooperative Educational Service ment.

Agency, (CESA) district No. 8. Under the rotation plan, delegates of the first three schools board of control in an at-large would have been elected for election as opposed to a rotation three years; the next four, two system at its annual convention years, and the last four, one at the Outagamie County court-house annex. This would give at least three new schools a chance to have board representation each year.

The agency has replaced offices of county superintendent of schools.

Ten of the 11 members of the Dr. Prather said the school interim board were re-elected to the board of control with all the delegates, in a ballot vote, elected to stay with the at-large election because of opportunity to elect an entire new board each year.

Re-elected as board of control officers were Mrs. Walter Heil, Appleton, chairman; Harland Kirchner, Clintonville, vice-chairman, and Milan Ratsch, treasurer. Kenneth Poppy, district co-ordinator, automatically is secretary for the delegation and the board of control.

Other Members Other members of the board are Olin Dryer, Kaukauna; Eugene Schellhout, Kimberly; Dr. Elvin Prather, Manawa; Mrs. Milton Gaertner, Menasha; Fred Bernegger, New London; Mrs. George Mueller; Mrs. George Wohlt, Weyauwega, and Mrs. Gordon Wentzel, Winneconne.

Eliminated from consideration for board membership were Elmer Sido, Freedom, due to absence from the meeting, and Kenneth Hermesen, Little Chute, who asked to be removed from the ballot because the extensive school building program being undertaken at Little Chute would not be represented by the board.

Another point of opposition was that by coincidence, the western portion of the agency would not be represented by the board.

Chain Reaction

One Injured in 7-Car Mishap at New London

NEW LONDON — One injury resulted from a seven-car line of traffic accident between 1 and 2 p.m. during a heavy rainstorm Saturday on U.S. 45 at the north city limits.

Mrs. Gerhard E. Winters, 55, Antigo, received minor cuts when her head went through the windshield of a car her husband was driving.

The chain reaction accident began at 1:05 p.m. when a car driven by Clifford L. Helbert, 45, Menomonee Falls, skidded on wet slippery pavement. City police said Helbert was pulling a boat and trailer north on 45 when the trailer began to swerve. Helbert pulled to the shoulder of the road and the boat trailer skidded into the ditch while the car stopped broadside in the road. A car driven by Gerald L. Wagner, 22, Menomonee Falls, traveling north struck the Helbert car.

At the same time cars driven by Larry Aho, 47, Mass. Mich., and James P. Linduska, 50, Bellwood, Ill., approached the accident scene and tried to stop north on 45.

The investigating policeman had just checked out the accident when cars driven by Daniel F. Schneider, 18, route 2, Egg Harbor and Louis O. Krause, 116 N. Clinton Ave., Clintonville, were involved in a similar accident at 3:50 p.m.

Failed to Yield City police said Schneider was traveling east on State 54 and failed to yield to the Krause car which was traveling north on U.S. 45.

Damage in all accidents was estimated at more than $100. The weekend was the worst encountered by New London police this year. The steady flow of traffic through the city which begins early Friday and continues until late Sunday has forced the police to control traffic at peak hours on Friday evenings.

Traffic Saturday mornings has put an increasing load on 45 as vacationers heading home and north encounter minor traffic jams in the city.

2 Motorists Fined On Traffic Counts At Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE—Two men were fined $20 and costs in Municipal Justice Court after pleading guilty to traffic violations which resulted in auto accidents.

Ernest F. Glawe, 70, route 2, Marion, pleaded guilty of unsafe backing after being involved in an accident Friday morning. According to police, Glawe was backing out of a parking lot in an alley between Ninth and Tenth streets when his car struck an auto driven by Emil C. Stubenvoll, 72, 144 Anne St., Clintonville, who was headed south.

Damages to the Stubenvoll car were estimated at $150. Damage to the Glawe car was minor.

Harland H. Fausch, 25, route 1, Coloma, Wis., pleaded guilty to failure to yield on a left turn. He was arrested by the Waupaca County traffic patrol after he was involved in a two-car accident Saturday night in which the driver of the other car was injured.

According to police, the accident occurred at 9:30 p.m. Saturday when Fausch, headed east on U.S. 45, one mile west of Clintonville, made a left turn into a driveway in front of a car driven by Arthur L. Raffin, 58, 92 Anne St., Clintonville, which was headed west.

Raffin was taken to Clintonville Community Hospital where he is being treated for head cuts and neck injuries. Damage to the Raffin car was estimated at $350 and $900 to the Fausch car.

Outagamie 'Seeks Squad Car Costs

Outagamie County Supervisors this morning in what can be considered as a test vote, gave the justice and enforcement courts committee permission to advertise for bids for county-owned squad cars by a 28-24 vote.

Presently county police own their own vehicles and are reimbursed for operation of the autos, including insurance.

The resolution does not authorize an immediate turnover to a policy of county-owned law enforcement vehicles, but merely authorizes the committee to get cost figures on such a program.

However, this morning's vote indicated that when the final question comes before the county board for a decision, the county may switch from its long standing policy of private law enforcement vehicle ownership to county owned equipment.

Voice Opposition
Considerable opposition was voiced from supervisors who disputed whether there would be a savings with the change. Proponents for the change, however, said the present system does not allow a true cost picture for operating the vehicles since police officers use them for their personal affairs as well as official business.

In fact, one supervisor said, there have been instances when members of police officers' families have been involved in accidents when using squad cars. He said the county had picked up the cost of the $50 deductible collision insurance coverage.

Kiwanis to Hear Justice of State Supreme Court

Thomas Fairchild To Speak on Work in Constitution Revision

Thomas E. Fairchild

Appleton Kiwanis Club at the group's noon meeting Wednesday at the Conway Hotel.

He is expected to discuss his work on the Governor's Commission on Constitutional Revision for the state. This concerns recent considerations to re-write the state constitution rather than instituting changes by amendment referendums. As chairman he has worked with the Commission on Constitutional Division under governors Nelson, Reynolds and Knowles.

Several persons who are active in judicial matters within this area have been invited to be guests of Appletton Kiwanis to hear Judge Fairchild. They include Urban P. VanSusteren, Outagamie county judge, Branch 1; Gustave J. Keller, county judge, Branch 2; Raymond P. Dohr, county judge, Branch 3, and Andrew W. Parnell, circuit judge for Outagamie, Langwade and Shawano counties. Gordon A. Bubolz, president of the Outagamie Bar Association, also has been invited to attend the luncheon meeting and program.

K-C Predicts Over $1 Billion Market for Disposable Items

Large Gains Foreseen by Paper Industry

NEENAH—Shipments of sanitary and household paper products will exceed $1 billion this year for the first time, according to an analysis by Kimberly-Clark Corp.

Company economists point out that dollar value of production by the sanitary product disposables sector of the U.S. paper industry has grown more than 30 per cent since 1960, and they forecast growth of 80 per cent, to $1.85 billion, by 1975. The figures are based on wholesale prices.

Included in the sanitary paper category are such products as facial and bathroom tissues, feminine sanitary protection products, table napkins, towels, wipers and other similar "use and throw away" items.

Bathroom Tissue Heads List
The K-C researchers said the biggest segment of the sanitary disposables business is bathroom tissue which accounts for about $350 million in manufacturers' shipments this year. Kimberly-Clark projections indicate a total $500 million wholesale market for this product in the next 10 years.

Second largest portion of the market is in paper towels, which are also the newest and fastest growing product group in sanitary papers. Growth has averaged more than 15 per cent annually for the last ten years. This year wholesale shipments will amount to $288 million with

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sheldon Graff, 49, former business manager for television producer William T. Orr, was convicted Monday of forging Orr's signature to obtain bank loans worth nearly $1 million.

A six-man, six - woman jury had deliberated since Aug. 3. Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler set Sept. 16 for sentencing and denied motions for bail.

Orr, vice president in charge of Warner Bros. television productions, testified Graff used Orr's stock to obtain loans and diverted them to his own use. The jury, after an 11 - week trial, found Graff guilty on four counts of forgery and 20 counts of grand theft.

Protests About S. Viet Nam — and Reality

The concern over our growing involvement in the Viet Nam war, in fact what now appears to be our virtual takeover of military operations against the Viet Cong and the bases in North Viet Nam has brought about a variety of protests, pickets and proposals. One comes from the Clergymen's Emergency Committee for Viet Nam of the Fellowship of Reconciliation in a full page ad in some newspapers.

Eleven American members and two foreign clergymen made a trip to Viet Nam to study the conditions. They represent congregations of Roman Catholic, Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, Unitarian and Jewish churches, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and the National Student Christian Federation. From Europe came Pastor Martin Niemöller, co-president of the World Council of Churches, and Pasteur Andre Trocme of a Reformed Church in Switzerland.

In their statement, the group emphasizes that "we do not equate peace with the simple absence of military conflict; true peace is inseparable from justice. We recognize that there are issues in Viet Nam of justice, freedom and the need for social change, but we deplore the way in which major powers have used and are using the villages of Viet Nam as a testing ground for ideological positions such as 'wars of national liberation' or 'containment of communism' by military force."

Most of us do not need a tour of Viet Nam to understand some of the sufferings of the innocent. The terrorism of the Viet Cong, the bombing of villages by intent or accident, the simple day by day contact with vicious, bitter war are horrible to consider especially since so many of the victims are completely innocent. But what can be the answer to the efforts of tyrants except resistance?

The Committee recommends a United Nations sponsored conference on Viet Nam including representatives of Hanoi and Peking, efforts to "reconcile the interests of the National Liberation Front (the Viet Cong) and the government of South Viet Nam." It suggests a halt to our bombing of the north "as a demonstration of good faith in calling for a cease fire."

Quite obviously North Viet Nam is not interested in negotiations at all until at least the end of the monsoon season sometime in September. The present weather conditions favor the guerrillas and they very likely consider they are winning. Certainly they have made strides in the last few months despite the buildup of American ground forces and the increased bombing raids. Hanoi just turned down any consideration of a United Nations role in discussions. And President Johnson's statement that we are willing to talk with any people, any nation, obviously including Viet Cong or Red China, brought no response at all.

John Fisher, writing in Harper's, discusses what we are trying to do in Viet Nam and what will probably be a long drawn out conflict. China needs an adversary to keep its revolution alive, he says, and only by containment of the sort we have used quite successfully against the Soviet Union, can we hope the revolution will eventually evolve into the state now in Russia. He also points to various efforts in the past of avoiding conflict by backing off—"Ethiopia (1935), Spain (1936) and Munich (1938)." Since the enemy in Viet Nam shows no interest, much less a willingness, to confer, what course lies ahead for us except further containment?

If men were angels, the proposals of the Fellowship of Reconciliation might have a chance to work. If the Vietnamese were willing to permit U.N. direction of peace talks, unification moves or a cease fire, there might be a chance for this course. But until they do, all that lies between China's control of all of Southeast Asia is the United States stand in Viet Nam. The fact is horrible but there it is.

Let's Have a Water Referendum

A special meeting of the Appleton Common Council will be held Wednesday night to determine whether or not an advisory referendum should be conducted in connection with the city's pressing search for a quality, long-range water supply.

Over the past two years the city government has had two water feasibility studies made, along with contacting neighboring communities to see whether they would join in a cooperative water venture. In each instance, the nationally-known firms which conducted the studies said a pipeline to Lake Michigan represented their first choice when it came to providing the community with the highest quality, long-term supply available. Their second choice was Lake Winnebago, the latter less expensive, a lower quality water and a temporary source.

No matter how or where Appleton goes for its future water supply—and this is misunderstood by many people—the cost will be underwritten by water utility revenue bonds. This means there will be a rate increase set by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission and the users of water for the present and future generations will pay off the "mortgage."

Rough estimates are that it will cost $14 to $15 million to go to Lake Michigan, which practically everyone agrees is the ultimate solution, while a stop-gap plunge into Lake Winnebago would cost about $2 million. It would take until 1970 or 1972 to complete either project and the rate increases would not go into effect until that time. We feel the people of Appleton are willing to pay the price—a few more cents a day—to get the best water possible.

Appleton residents will go to the polls Sept. 14 to vote in a previously scheduled referendum election and adding the water question is the fair and logical thing to do. To avoid any confusion, the Common Council should have the question on the ballot read: "Should the City of Appleton go to Lake Michigan for its future water supply?"

The referendum would be strictly advisory and a directive to our elected officials on what step to take in solving a water problem which is growing more serious by the day.

No Grave Robbers Needed

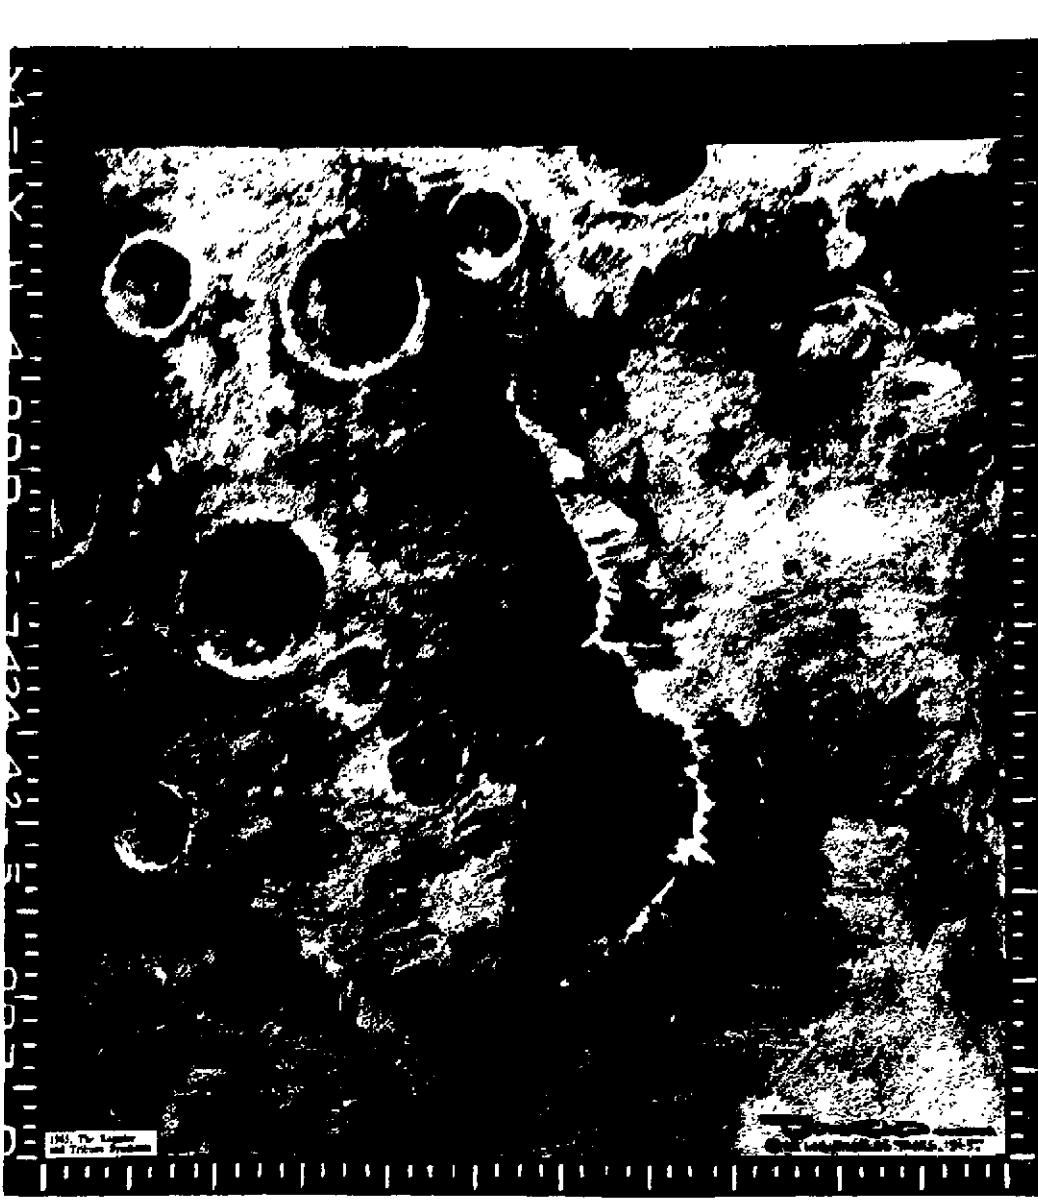

Years ago when young medical students sought human bodies for their studies they had to indulge in grave robbing. The laws opposing the dissection of bodies were strict and upheld by religious and moral viewpoints that this was sinful mutilation. Superstition and old folk remedies were considered a lot more important to healing than an understanding of the human body so essential in the practice of medicine.

But times have changed. And even the increased enrollments at most medical schools in the United States has not kept up with the availability of bodies for dissection.

Actually many medical school officials consider the controversial book, The Amer- ican Way of Death, by Jessica Mitford, as important in increasing the body donations in wills. The Mitford book overemphasized some of the more unfortunate funeral customs in the nation and indicated that all morticians made fortunes out of the grief of mourners. The reaction of some people has been to donate their bodies to medical schools either to avoid funeral costs for their heirs or to spite the funeral directors.

While such motives are unfortunate, others are more worthy. More than 3,000 bodies are needed each year in the United States for dissection by medical, dental and nursing students. Many donors quite rightly feel that they are giving a donation to science and the future saving of lives that cannot be duplicated by a cash gift.

Sorensen, Schlesinger Books Give Valuable Insights Into Kennedy

BY MAX FREEDMAN

It has become the fashion to sneer at the books now being written about President Kennedy and to mock their authors by attributing mean motives to them. The more judicial-minded would have been wise to wait until they had the completed books before reading now is totally different. These are not ventures in self-esteem or advertisements of a mistaken faith in one's own wisdom. Their purpose rather is to set high in honor the proud name of John Kennedy so that neither the stealthy oblivion brought by time nor the organized jealousies of politics can ever dim its splendor. It is a worthy aim and it should protect their work from trivial abuse.

As Ted Sorensen has written with such profound insight, the most astonishing quality about President Kennedy was his endless capacity for growth. He was neither a saint nor a monument but a man, magnificent and many-sided, and yet smilingly willing to admit his own faults and limitations. Unless his ability to learn from mistakes is understood, his greater ability to pluck the mystery from the future will forever remain a puzzle. Sorensen has gone about his task the right way in showing Kennedy moving steadily forward to a standard of excellence which becomes steadily more exacting as he develops his genius for greatness.

Long months before the tragedy at Dallas, Arthur

Schlesinger reflected on the hazards and triumphs of contemporary history. He recalled with bitter agreement the famous warning by Sir Walter Raleigh that "whoever, in writing a modern history, shall follow truth too near the heels, it may haply strike out his teeth." It seemed even then a risk worth taking, for it is one of his majestic endowments as depressed into solemnity by an accumulation of documents. His unafraid gaiety and the presence of truth has enabled him to reveal aspects of the Kennedy administration that the hooded prudence of more timid minds would have hidden furtively from public view. He was taught by his years in the White House, as he himself told us in 1963, to mistrust the process by which historians "transformed a disheveled and murky evolution into a tidy and ordered transaction."

Writing out of that conviction, he has remembered the claims of history by giving us the breathless improvisations that are often mistaken for great decisions. The rest of us, or at least large numbers of us, have reason to be grateful, even through grim and wounded officials may protest.

City Should Trust Voters To Select Its Officials

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I noticed in the August 5th issue that now the League of Women Voters have changed their minds. Not too long ago they were for only the assessor's appointment. Seems that if the opinion was changed after the inconclusive meeting they had with the public. The public meeting was useless. It also states that any member of the League would have known we never poll the membership. When the League met in convention I believe they polled the convention membership. Do they operate different at the local level?

Now the issue whether the mayor should appoint these officials, I believe that once these offices are filled that they cannot be removed except by a 3/4 vote of the council. What a fine mess the city will be in, in April if the Mayor should get beat. We'll have not two fellows that question the actions but could well be four and the council and new mayor would really be in a bind. This could well happen with the rate of taxation and the loss of businesses going to the tax havens of Grand Chute and Town of Menasha.

In closing citizens just give these lines some thought: Trust the People. Trust their Good Sense. Trust their Decency. Trust their Fortitude. Trust them with the Facts. Trust their Decisions. Then we shall Truly have Democracy.

Amendment for Four Year Terms for Top State Officers Begun

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—A mildly encouraging manifestation of a new legislative attitude on contemporary problems of government was the recent approval by both houses of the legislature of a constitutional amendment which if ultimately enacted will abandon the short tenure rule for state elective officers. The Senate and the Assembly agreed, for the time being at least, that there is merit in the idea of a four-year term, replacing the two-year term, which has been increasingly adopted in the other states of the country in recent times.

Wyngaard

As if to emphasize that they are aware of the discussions in the public arena on reform of ancient rules, the lawmakers also amended the proposition to require the governor and lieutenant governor to be elected on the same ballot. Thus if the amendment finally becomes law, the state will be saved from such incongruities as resulted twice in recent years when a governor of one party and a lieutenant governor of another won majorities of the votes as candidates in separate counts. It is perhaps difficult to show that any tangible harm results from such strange decisions of the electorate, but since the lieutenant governor is a kind of constitutional heir apparent to the governor, it is illogical on the face of it.

LONGER TERMS

Another change in the finally endorsed amendment from the original version was the addition of the four subordinate state constitutional officers to the list of those suggested for four-year instead of two-year tenure. Those who are immediately acquainted with the function and the typical performance of occupants of such offices as state secretary and state treasurer generally would prefer their abolition, and the transfer of their severely pruned functions to the regular civil service functionaries. But since that short ballot idea doesn't seem likely to win public acceptance soon, it is perhaps as well that the legislature proposes to give persons who are chosen for those lesser places enough tenure to get acquainted with their quarters before they are required to hit the campaign trail to coax the votes to win re-election.

The heart of the tenure issue relates to the office of governor. Perhaps there is no man who has held the office, in modern times at least, who has not left it with some regrets about tasks that he had set himself that were unfinished upon his departure. The reason is that every man who wins the office desires to hold it at least twice, and in a competitive political system, that requires a diversion of energy and thought to political campaigning almost from the amount of inauguration.

Without intending to disparage him, Gov. Knowles is a clinical example. Doubtless there are scores of matters inside his office to which he would be devoting his mind and energy, if he had the luxury of security for a couple of years. But he does not. And so there are grueling, constant expeditions into the field to cultivate the electorate against the hazards of the election next year.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Under the prevailing circumstances, a governor scarcely has time to make the acquaintance of his nominal subordinates in the agencies during a two-year term. The Knowles situation is virtually identical to that which prevailed with Govs. Reynolds and Nelson and Thomson during eight preceding years. The last governors who had the leisure for reflection and careful examination of the men and issues confronting them were Walter Kohler and Oscar Rennebohm.

There sticks in the memory an illustrative incident. During the Rennebohm administration nearly two decades ago the executive office summoned to a conference the head of one of the protective divisions of the State Industrial Commission. It was a precautionary move, if memory serves, echoing concern about a major mine disaster in neighboring Illinois. When the inspection official turned up, he related his gratitude and pleasure about the opportunity for a talk with the chief of state. He had been in the civil service for 40 years, and had never met a governor before.

Strictly Personal

There Are Two Kinds Of Unreasonable Men

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Some months ago, I was invited to take part in a television forum on the subject of "The Unreasonable Man." The program's point of departure was Bernard Shaw's famous aphorism:

Harris

"The reasonable man adapts himself to the world, the unreasonable one persists in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore all progress depends on the unreasonable man."

Illness prevented me from appearing on the program, or even watching it, but I had been thinking about Shaw's quotation and wondering what was right and what was wrong with it.

It seems to me that the catch lies in the phrase "The unreasonable man." There are two distinct ways of being "unreasonable" we might call them the irrational way and the supra-rational way.

The irrational way is a perversion of reason; the supra-rational way is a going beyond reason. There is a world of difference between the man who twists the facts to fit his preconceptions, and the man who is dissatisfied with the facts and looks for new and different ones to support and validate his views.

The irrational way is the way of tyrants and bigots; the supra-rational way is the way of prophets and inventors and creative geniuses.

As someone has pointed out, Hitler was "unreasonable," but so was Pasteur. Hitler tried to change the world to fit his paranoid version of reality; Pasteur, who was derided by all the "reasonable" scientists of his time, ploughed ahead to find justification in reality for his revolutionary view of the germ theory of disease.

It is true that reasonable men do not accomplish very much; they are content to accept the world as they find it, to rub along, to make the best of things, to adjust themselves to conditions, to limit their vision, curb their imagination, and repress their zeal.

It would be wrong, however, to agree with Shaw that "all progress depends on the unreasonable man." Most evil depends on him, too, if he is merely irrational and not supra-rational, if his intuitions and drives are for destruction, division and despotism. An enormous gulf separates the fanatic who has not yet risen to reason, and the one who has gone beyond it.

Was Jesus "reasonable" or "unreasonable"? In one sense, he was profoundly unreasonable in making demands on human beings that are nearly impossible to fulfill. On the other hand, we might say that he exemplified the essence of reasonableness for, as Shaw said elsewhere, "nobody has ever been sane enough to try His way."

Looking Backward

Political Hanky-Panky in Ohio

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 12, 1965.

CINCINNATI, Ohio—Aug. 8, 1965—There never was such outages on the face of the earth as the action of the military at the polls on Monday.

The election of every Republican by these villainous practices is to be contested. It can be proved on oath that names of Democratic voters were traced on a list and given to the military, who refused to let any man come to the polls whose name was on the list.

A reporter driving to vote requested to see the judges and be sworn and then, if after making a full statement, he was refused he would retire. The military replied that they stood between the voter and the judges, and ordered them to leave. A large number insisted upon their rights and were arrested, and are now lying in a military prison.

Again, Democratic judges and clerks appointed by the County courts were dragged out of the room before the votes were taken by the military and ordered to leave, and Republicans placed in their stead.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, Aug. 6, 1940.

Two British youngsters, David and Paul Sabine, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sabine of Here, a suburb of Kingston, England, were making their home with their aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rankin of Seymour. They were to live in Seymour for the duration of the war.

Orin Keller, Marion, was elected president of the Keller family at its reunion at Keller Park Town of Dupont, Wau-paca County. Other officers were Mrs. Frank Keller vice president, Mrs. Alvin Ewald, secretary-treasurer.

New officers for the Stevens family which held its reunion

Tuesday, Aug. 9, 1955

Three Appleton University of Wisconsin students were to serve on orientation committees to welcome new students to the Madison campus in September. They were Oscar Schimmo Jr., Patia Grover and Sue Benson, all upperclassmen.

Six Fox Cities students received scholarships to Marquette University. They were Benjamin DeDecker, David E. Schuh and Mary Jane Black all of Appleton, Elizabeth Lindquist and Walter McCanna, Menasha, Benedict Verhagen, Kaukauna.

Mrs. Paul V. Cary, Appleton, chairman for Outagamie Chapter of the National Foun-

ation for Infantile Paralysis, reported eight new cases of polio, bringing the total figures to a record 117 cases in a breakdown of figures on the epidemic. 25 cases were in Appleton, 12 in rural Appleton, 27 in Kaukauna, and the remainder scattered throughout the county. In the Neenah-Menasha area the total stood at 35 that morning.

Wide Reading Variety at Library

Book Relates Red Cross Mission in Soviet Russia

The Appleton Public Library has received a wide variety of new books to suit the reading tastes of every age.

Among the books is "The Wild Children of the Urals" by Floyd Miler.

This is a story of an extraordinary American Red Cross mission undertaken during the Russian Revolution which describes the odyssey of some 800 children rescued from the Siberian wilds and transported about 15,000 miles around the globe to their Petrograd homes.

In 1918 it came to the attention of the ARC in Siberia that children sent to the country by their parents in destitute Petrograd were caught behind enemy lines, and were surviving by living off the countryside.

Boarded Japanese Ship
When Vladivostok no longer provided sanctuary, they took to the sea aboard a Japanese ship where disciplinary difficulties extend to the intractable, hostile crew.

The position of the Red Cross was in question over a decision to disembark the children in France—international differences caused them to rebel, but, after a near disastrous Madison Square Garden rally in which the Communists tried to use the situation and the children to their ends, the children vindicated their benefactors. Ultimately Finland, a neutral Baltic port, was found and the children restored to their families.

Another "heroic" book, "Report From a Chinese Village," by Jan Myrdal, exemplifies a village in Northern Shensi province.

Discusses All Aspects
Here is a book which for its integrity of perspective, its wholeness in treating all aspects of life as it is lived in Liu Ling today and in recording the history "within living memory" of the villagers, and in its determined thoroughness and specificity provides an exemplar in the study of peoples.

This composite portrait of a village tells how the people make their living, how they grow to adulthood, marry, live, and meet death.

It tells how the Communists took over, how the collective is organized, and how the hierarchy of the Communist Party operates within the village. The doings of the day, the menu of the week, the work of the year, the total population by household are all recorded.

And here men who turned to communism and helped it vanquish feudal landlordism and the oppressive KMT, stand side by side with the counter-revolutionary land-owner whose land was taken from him.

The older woman who has known feudal serfdom speaks out beside the young woman of bourgeois background who came to Liu Ling to be re-educated.

Learns of Transition
The old secretary who has been through the wars and the young organizer who was nurtured on Communism tell their stories. The reader comes away with a sense of knowing, from the ground where the millet is planted up to the aspirations of the "little author," a society that has survived a profound transition, maintaining many of its values while existing in the context of communism.

The other new books are: "Agent of the Terran Empire" by Paul Anderson; "The Penetrators" by Benjamin Aston; "The New York Ride" by Anne Height" by Bruce Byers; "Al-ice's Adventurers Under Ground" by Lewis Carroll; "The Liberation of Lord Byron" by Jesse Ford; "Deo Gratias" by Nichel Servin; "Beware of Caesar" by Vincent Shaeen; "Monkey on a Chain" by Ursula Torday;

Other New Books
"The James Bond Dossier" by Kingsley Amis; "Fair Fights and Foul" by Thurman Arnold; "About the House" by WYSTAN Auden; "Nero" by John Bishop; "One Gallant Rush" by Peter Burchard; "The Dropout" by Lucius Cervantes; "First Gentleman of the Bedchamber" by Hubert Cole;

Viet Nam Fast Becoming an American War

Up to U. S. Forces to Find Main Units of Enemy, Destroy Them

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND
ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Painfully but inevitably, the war in Viet Nam is becoming an American war, with major engagements between U.S. troops and "main force" units of the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas a certainty in the weeks and months ahead.

It wasn't more than a few weeks ago that U.S. military commanders in the field were planning to employ the growing number of U.S. troops only to protect military bases along the coast in a few major cities.

This was the origin of the sterile "enclaves" policy which liberals outside the Administration are so enamored with.

New Strategy
Now the President himself, with the agreement of his highest military authorities, is irrevocably—and correctly—embarked on a far different strategy.

Boiled down, the strategy is to use only South Vietnamese troops to "pacify" the countryside and American troops, often working in tandem with Vietnamese regulars, in outright offensive operations against organized VC units.

To have decided otherwise would have made it impossible to lift the ratio of South Vietnamese and U.S. troops over the Communists to the required 4 or 5 to 1.

It must be quickly said that to define the new strategy is not to make it work.

Consider, for example, the incredibly complex tactical problems raised by the new strategy of offensive U.S. military operations on the ground.

How to Find Main Force
They involve hard questions of command structure, of the deadly serious psychological effect of U.S. responsibility for civilian casualties in the hamlets (a cause of deepest concern here), of how to locate and entice into combat the elusive, "main force" units of the enemy, and countless others.

There are no pat answers to these tactical questions today and may never be.

"We don't have a formula," says a high-ranking Administration official. "We've got to play it by ear, holding to techniques that work, discarding ones that don't."

For example, although the decision has already been made, not to establish a formal, joint Vietnamese-U.S. command, U.S. officers in the field will have wide latitude to work out control over combined operations with their Vietnamese counterparts.

But more important than these complex questions of tactics is the reason behind the President's basic strategy decisions.

If the "enclaves" policy had been adopted, the inevitable result would be to turn over most of the country to the Viet Cong. And that would mean turning over most of the people.

To pin down U.S. forces in base areas and abandon the villages and hamlets would extend an engraved invitation to the Viet Cong to widen and deepen their undercover network of shadow-government food distribution, levying taxes, and providing "security."

A Political War
The argument that an American "presence" in the fortified "enclaves" would prove our determination to stay on and on is specious if at the same time the bulk of the people are abandoned to the Viet Cong.

The war, in short, is not a war of territory. It is a political war for the people's allegiance.

With adoption of the new U.S. strategy has come a new mood of cold realism. In all the hours of secret talks and briefings that have gone on here the past few weeks, not one unduly optimistic note has been struck. For four years there has been far too much optimism, too publicly expressed. Yesterday's optimists are now digging in mentally for a long haul of five to ten years in South Viet Nam.

It was with this in mind that the Pentagon urged President Johnson to announce an immediate troop build-up to 175,000 instead of 125,000 two weeks ago. The Pentagon also wanted selected reserve units called up and an immediate extension of the duty-tours in the combat area.

The prospect is all but certain that these and other painful steps will be taken by the President in due course.

But the basic decision—to use the U.S. infantry as shock troops to confront and fight the Viet Cong—has now been taken.

Congressional GOP Looking Like Nonparty

Confusion Blamed on Lack of Direction,
Johnson Popularity

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans in Congress are beginning to look like a nonparty, thanks to their own lack of direction, the weight of President Johnson's performance and the huge Democratic majority.

But even countrywide they haven't recovered yet from the divisions which plagued them in 1964 and the political catastrophe that overwhelmed them in November.

It left them with only 141 of 435 seats in the House, 32 of 100 seats in the Senate, and 17 of 50 governorships. At this moment there's no reason to think they will improve their fortunes much in the 1966 elections.

"Not Cocky"

After the GOP National Committee met two days this summer, the chairman, Ray C. Bliss, said the members were "not cocky" about the party's chances "but we honestly believe we can make gains."

Party leaders have been worried that a sprawl of independent research and campaign groups will cloud party policy and splinter financing in the 1966 elections.

Meanwhile Johnson, luckily free of unpredictable difficulties at home like an economic downturn or paralyzing strikes or fights, has been setting an astonishing pace and record.

His performance in ramming through the Democratic-run Congress what he wants but what was never achieved before, like medical care for people 65 and older, makes even President Franklin D. Roosevelt look sluggish.

Split on Medicare

(In both houses Republicans split almost in half on the medicare bill while on the 1965 Voting Rights Act the great majority of Republicans in both houses voted for it.)

And Johnson still has pretty much full support for his foreign policies even though there are some misgivings about the increasing American involvement in Viet Nam and where it may lead.

Unless Johnson's luck at home turns sour or he suffers disasters in foreign affairs it's hard to see how the Republicans can better themselves much in 1966.

There is, of course, the question: Can Johnson keep it up?

He has no doubts he can. It is known that his attitude toward the success of his multitude of programs in Congress this year can be summed up this way: "You ain't seen nothing yet."

Just Monday he disclosed a plan. He will appoint a task force of leaders in government and private life to chart ambitious goals for the nation.

"We must advance daily or we will fail eternally," he said.

At this moment, looking ahead to the 1968 presidential race, no single Republican is a standout for the nomination, although the next three years might produce one.

Barry Goldwater, after what happened to him last year, is out of presidential consideration; he intends to run for the Senate in 1968. And not one of his top men who ran the show in 1964 retains a commanding party position.

Nevertheless, conservative Republicans who think like Goldwater are a strong force in the party. They were a divisive force in 1964 and may be again.

Goldwater heads a recently formed conservative organization — the Free Society Association — which he said would be academic and educational in makeup and goals.

Political Education

The society, he said, would launch a "crusade of political education" in the principles of conservatism.

But Bliss said the Goldwater group would hamper his quest for unity and money to rebuild the battered party. "Whenever you have splinter groups," he said, "they don't assist in uniting us."

That isn't the only splinter group. But as a further example of division within the party.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who tried hard last year for the Republican presidential nomination only to be flattened by the Goldwaters, says now he definitely will not try again. He wants a third term as governor.

But even in this there are New York Republicans who oppose him.
